WIPE OUT DRAFT DEFERMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Dependency draft deferment—even for men with children—will be wiped out for countless thousands under a new order issued by the Manpower Commission's Selective Service Bureau today to take effect April 1.

Designed to impel transfer of draft eligibles from non-essential to essential work, the order—departing completely from any issued heretofore—sets up a list of activities and job-occupations that are to be "non-deferrable," regardless of dependents, after April 1.

Although selective service boards were instructed to start on that date reconsidering the status of "non-deferrables," workers in that classification will be given an additional 30 days to find essential positions providing that they have registered with the U. S. Employment Service for a job transfer.

The list, which WMC Chairman Paul V. McNutt called "just a beginning" in a broad hint that dependency deferments are being narrowed generally to relieve labor shortages in war industries, covers:

1—All job-occupations in 19 manufacturing, eight wholesale and retail trades, and nine service activities.

2—Twenty-nine job occupations "non-deferrable regardless of the activity in which they are found," even if it is one of the 35 activities which have been designated as essential for purposes of occupational deferment.

YANKS DRIVE GERMANS OUT OF TUNIS TOWN

LONDON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Thrusting close to Maknassy, 33 miles from the eastern Tunisian coast, an American raiding force drove the Germans from the village of Seneid, repulsed a counter-attack, and withdrew only after accomplishing its mission, it was announced today.

An Allied communique said that elsewhere on the living western Tunisian front:

"Our infantry, supported by tanks and artillery, attacked the enemy at Faid.

"In central Tunisia the enemy made a slight gain in the hills southwest of Pont du Fahs. Our forces counterattacked, restoring the position."

DOWN 12 NAZI PLANES

Allied bombers battered the docks at Tunis yesterday and hit at least two ships of a convoy entering the harbor, the communique said.

Altogether, Allied planes downed 12 German fighters. That was three to one heavier than the Allied air loss for the day.

It appeared likely a unified command for North Africa would be established soon, probably under TUNISIA—U. S. troops strike Nazis hard in three sectors. One column seeks capture of Faid Pass, 60 miles west of Sfax, two others beat against Maknassy, 33 miles from Gulf of Gabes.

HELPED TO GET JOBS

McNutt said the WMC's U. S. Employment Service would help men in this class with dependents to find war jobs, and added that if they did not take jobs in essential activities they might be caught again by expansion of the non-deferrable list.

He urged that they consult the nearest employment service for a war job or training leading to such a job, but warned that they "must not go to overcrowded defense centers" unless the employment service has obtained a "definite job" for them there.

Local draft boards were told to reconsider the classifications of all registrants in non-deferrable work beginning April 1, but to consider all cases "with common sense."

They also were told that "the following grounds may be accepted as reasonable excuses for temporary idleness or for being engaged in a non-deferrable activity or occupation:

"Sickness of the registrant or in immediate family of registrant; physical disqualifications; reasonable vacation; compelling circumstances that would not permit the change of employment without undue hardship to the registrant or his dependents."

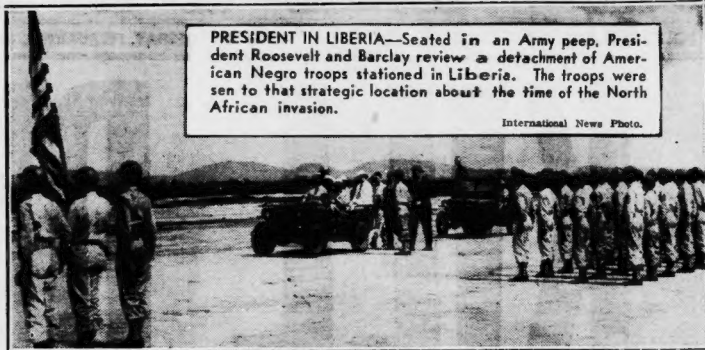

EXPANSION PROMISED

McNutt, emphasizing that the non-deferrable list would be expanded "from time to time" to include other activities and job-occupations, said April 1 was made

Turk Pact New Nazi Woe

LONDON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Prime Minister Churchill, carrying forward the Allied pattern for conquest of the Axis, has flown to Turkey at the very edge of Hitler's troubled European domain and agreed with President Ismet Inonu, among other things, on plans for bolstering Turkish defenses, it was announced officially today.

Churchill, coming directly from the historic conference at Casablanca, gave a broad and unmistakable warning to Hitler against a spring offensive in the direction of Turkey.

On the return trip Churchill stopped off at the British island of Cyprus, near the Turkish coast, to address a gathering of "leading personalities" and to inspect the garrison at Nicosia.

Borrowing a phrase from President Roosevelt, he assured his listeners there that the United Nations "are strong and they will march forward from strength to strength until unconditional surrender is extorted from those who have laid the world in havoc and ruin."

He declared that the United Nations represent "incomparably the strongest group of human beings ever marshalled in arms in the whole history of the world."

"I am glad to tell you," he said, "that our relations with the Turks are of the most friendly character. Their views are very much like our own and we intend to help their own general defensive security in every way in our power."

As a quick aftermath of the conference, the Berlin radio reported today that Franz von Papen, German ambassador to Turkey, had been received by Turkish Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioglu. The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

The British and Turkish leaders, accompanied by military and political advisers, discussed the entire European situation, including the Nazi-dominated state of Bulgaria on Turkey's northern border, where Hitler frequently has been reported building up an army, and the German-occupied countries of Greece and Yugoslavia.

Churchill has been standing fully mobilized at one of Europe's hottest corners for months as President Inonu has held his nation rigidly on a neutral path.

Churchill took off after lunch Sunday and turned up smiling in Egypt last night.

It was reported that Premier Joseph Stalin of Russia had been informed of the conference and had sent Churchill a message beforehand, expressing hope that the talks would be successful.

REDS 40 MI. FROM ROSTOV

MOSCOW, Feb. 2 (AP)—Red army troops have pushed one wedge of their arc around Rostov to within less than 40 miles of the city with the capture of Zernovoy, and are developing new thrusts against Kursk, Kharkov and Krasnodar, Soviet authorities indicated today.

The Russian neon communique, as recorded in London by the Soviet radio monitor, said that more towns were taken in advances west of Voronezh by the army that is aiming for Kursk, and that stubborn German resistance on the southern front had been broken, with the Axis troops retreating.

Armies in the western Caucasus were reporting closing in on Krasnodar, one of the two main German bases left in the area—the naval base of Novorossisk on the Black Sea coast is the other. Another Caucasus column drove up the railroad from Salsk through Mechetinskaya and into the towns of Zernovoy and Verbyud, on the road to Rostov, the Russians announced.

Krasnodar is a rail junction on the Kuban river, a station on the main Stalingrad-Novorossisk railway.

It was estimated that the Germans had some 200,000 men in the area and the capture of Krasnodar would isolate the Germans based at Novorossisk.

Other columns in the arc around Rostov lay in the lower Don, Sal and Manyk valleys and on the railroad to the north of Rostov.

The last remotely favorable defensive position left the Germans southeast of Rostov appeared to be at the Kagalnik river, just northwest of Mechetinskaya and Zernovoy. The river is not frozen and this fact would work against an attacking force.

German military quarters in a broadcast announced the deaths of Lieut.-Gen. Von Hartmann and Maj.-Gen. Stempel "at the head of their troops after weeks of resistance against overwhelming enemy superiority" in the fighting at Stalingrad.

German armies, said the communique, were fighting "serious battles of defense" along virtually the whole front—"from the Caucasus to the Central Don and on Lake Ladoga."

The German high command again reported that the withdrawal of their forces on the southern front.

U.S. Call to Uniform Finds Women Eager

By KATHERINE DONOVAN

Getting off to a brilliant start, the New England-wide recruiting drive for WAACS, WAVES and SPARS surged ahead today, at the newly opened recruiting office in the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser building in 5 Winthrop sq., with heart-warming response from young women ready and proud to serve their country.

IT'S THIS WAY—Alberta Gossett, yeoman third class, left, answers the questions of Dorothea Levoie of Dorchester, center, and Anna Anness of Chelsea as they seek information on joining the WAVES.

Hundreds of preliminary applications by mail and in person, poured into the office, as schoolgirls and women in every type of profession, business and technical job eagerly sought information to apply for enlistment in one of the three services.

Auxiliaries in the WAACS and enlistees in the WAVES and SPARS worked diligently to answer scores of questions of would-be applicants, and cited their own thrilling and interesting experiences in the jobs for which they have already qualified.

The drive represents the greatest recruiting drive in New England's history, and it is a drive which will determine the typical New England girl to represent each branch of the service—Miss New England Army, Miss New England Navy and Miss New England Coast Guard.

Selection of these representative young women will be announced at a mass induction, to be held at Boston Garden, where a great patriotic demonstration will take place as a tribute to the girls entering the service of their country to release for active duty a soldier, a sailor or a Coast Guardsman.

LEADERS TO SPEAK

As inspiration and encouragement in this recruiting drive, the three famed women leaders of each service will be in Boston on Feb. 9, as guests and speakers at the luncheon of the Advertising Club of Boston at the Hotel Statler at 12:15.

The three are Col. Oveta Culp Hobby, director of the WAACS; Lieut.-Commr. Mildred H. McAfee, director of the WAVES, and Lieut.-Commr. Dorothy C. Stratton, leader of the SPARS.

The Advertising Club luncheon is open to the public. Following the luncheon, the three leaders of the women's services will pay a personal visit to the recruiting office at 5 Winthrop sq., as a demonstration of their interest in the drive.

The patriotic enthusiasm of the young women, and their response so early in the drive, has been a matter of pride to the Record-American and Sunday Advertiser, with whom the Army, Navy and Coast Guard has been co-operating in this urgent service.

Typical of girls who have made application for enlistments is Miss Rita Doyle of Brighton, who came

ROOSEVELT TALKS OF WIN-WAR PARLEY

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (INS)—President Roosevelt today told his first press conference since his return to the United States that his Casablanca talks with British Prime Minister Churchill were conferences to win the war—to make plans for winning of the war as far as one can plan ahead.

This planning ahead, in this instance, the President said, referred to the year 1943.

The President quoted from his annual message to Congress that "we are going to strike and strike hard." And the Casablanca meeting, he said, was in fulfillment of that statement.

DECISIONS UNANIMOUS

The Chief Executive declared that the decisions reached between himself and Churchill and the military staff of the two nations were unanimous. He reiterated that the conference results and the progress was transmitted to Russian Premier Joseph Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek of China.

Asked if he had received any reply from Stalin, and if Stalin was in accord with the decisions reached at Casablanca, President Roosevelt replied that he could not answer the question publicly because they were speaking of military events which are necessarily secret.

He cautioned reporters, however, not to infer that there is anything going wrong between Russia and the other United Nations.

Asked if he hoped to meet Stalin in the future, President Roosevelt replied that hope springs eternal.

Mr. Roosevelt characterized the Casablanca meeting as one involving military matters.

As the President spoke, he appeared rested and calm after his 16,000-mile trip.

NATALIE'S ARRIVAL HALTS WDC HEARING

Within minutes today after Natalie Hays Hammond, deposed commandant of the Massachusetts Women's Defense Corps, had made a spectacular entrance at a legislative hearing where supporters expected to demand her reinstatement—the session broke up in confusion.

Lee Friedman Grove Receiver

Atty. Lee M. Friedman of State st., was named federal receiver for Cocoanut Grove, Inc., today following a hearing on a creditors' petition in involuntary bankruptcy before Referee in Bankruptcy Arthur Black in federal court.

More than a dozen creditors appeared before Referee Black. The name of former U. S. Commr. Harry N. Guterman also was suggested.

Friedman's appointment will take precedent over the two temporary receivers which had been named by Judge Walter L. Collins, in superior court.

The state receivers are Atlys. Joseph B. Abrams and Martin T. Hall.

Sen. Ralph Clampt, Republican, of Springfield, chairman of the legislative military affairs and public safety committee, ended the session as Miss Hammond was standing, waiting to be heard.

The committee chairman had told reporters before the session no committee invitation had been extended to Miss Hammond to appear, and in open session had expressed surprise that there should be so large a gathering for "routine matters."

BILL NOT SCHEDULED

In fact there had been no intention, Chairman Clampt said, to hear House Bill No. 1160 today—the bill upon which Miss Hammond's supporters based their hopes for her being returned to command the Women's Defense Corps.

Bill 1160, Clampt announced, was last on the list before the committee.

Miss Hammond had entered the hearing room, led, flanked and rear-guarded by a platoon of women. In the van of the spectacular entrance was former State Sen. Sybil Holmes of Brookline.

A burst of applause came from the other women assembled as Miss Hammond made her appearance, wearing a gray caracole coat with a brown soft hat, of mannish type, pulled low over one eye.

PETITION OF 300

Others in the group with her as escort included Anna G. McKenney, an information officer in the Women's Corps; Miss Alice Loughlin, recently resigned as chief of staff, and Miss Alice W. Flowers, who wore a hunter's type vivid red cap and carried a scroll with the names of 300 per-

Errol Flynn Trial Nears Finish

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2 (AP)—The prosecution begins today its final argument to convince a superior court jury of nine women and three men it should convict Movie Star Errol Flynn of three charges of statutory attack.

Both sides rested yesterday after another day of testimony about the filing on the door latch of the "blue bedroom" in a Bel Air home, where 17-year-old Betty Hansen charges the actor violated her after a dinner party last Sept. 27.

Defense witness Lloyd Eads, a locksmith, testified the filing could have been done "any time—two weeks or two years ago, or longer."

On Friday a police chemist testified that, two days previously, he discovered the shank of the latch had been filed, making the lock inoperative.

Defense witnesses had testified it had been impossible to bolt the door for a long time because the latch was defective. But earlier Miss Hansen had told the jury that when she and Flynn were in the room he walked toward the door and she heard a click; she wasn't sure whether he locked it. Another prosecution witness had told of being unable to open the door at the time of the alleged intimacy.

C. D. Pope, county locksmith, testified for the prosecution that the latch appeared to bear file marks, but on cross-examination he said he didn't know how long they had been there.

Prosecution and defense attorneys predicted the case would go to the jury Thursday night or Friday morning.

Fire Loss $100,000 in Roxbury

Sweeping through an apartment, four retail stores and a floral establishment, a four-alarm fire today at Washington and Vernon sts., Roxbury, drove a family of six to the street and caused damage estimated at $100,000.

Though Elevated trains continued to operate during the more than two hours firemen battled the flames, passengers held their breath as the trains poked through smoke.

Trolley and bus service along Washington st. was rerouted because of the maze of hose lines laid across the thoroughfare

CAT BOUSES FAMILY

The fire, believed to have started in the basement of the McLellan Stores Co., a dime-to-a-dollar department store, ran through the three-story structure, but was prevented by a fire wall from reaching the adjoining Woolworth store.

Awakened by the scratching and mewling of their black cat, "Beauty," Leroy Bennett, 45, engineer for the building, escaped with his family from their second-floor apartment rear, and were sheltered at a nearby Salvation Army depot on Vernon st.

The cat was carried to safety by Mrs. Gertrude Bennett, while the father and 19-year-old Melvin herded out the other three children—Francis, 12; Robert, 11, and June, 8.

From the McLellan store, the flames spread to the Thom McAn shoe store, then to the Saranoff-Irving haberdashery shop and then to the upper floors, occupied by the Hub Floral Manufacturing Co., where artificial flowers and decorations are made.

B, C Gas Rations Renewed by Mail

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Holders of B, C, E and R gasoline rations were provided today with a method of renewing expired ration books by mail.

The Office of Price Administration said local boards would mail out application forms to persons whose rations are expiring and permit answers by mail.

DIES WOULD CUT OFF PAY OF 'CRACKPOTS'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—To the accompaniment of applause from both sides of the House, Rep. Dies (D.) of Texas called on Congress to purge the government of "irresponsible, unrepresentative, crackpot and radical bureaucrats" by withholding funds from the agencies employing them.

The Texan, who is chairman of the committee on un-American activities, made direct charges of Communistic affiliations against numerous persons in government positions.

He also declared that persons of un-American views have engaged in a conspiracy to "smear Congress and discredit its members."

Applause frequently interrupted Dies. However, when he had finished, Rep. Will Rogers (D.) of California, son of the late humorist, gained the floor for his first speech since becoming a member of Congress, and said:

"I should like it to be known that I disagree with the sentiments expressed, the flamboyant manner of expression used and the use of this great forum as a means of what we in Hollywood would call personal publicity."

NAMES FORTY

Dies named approximately 40 government employees after saying he would "make crystal clear just what we mean by irresponsible, unrepresentative, crackpot and radical bureaucrats," including employees of the Federal Communications Commission, War Production Board and other agencies.

Prominent on Dies' list was the name of Maurice Parmelee, who figured prominently in the news after the Dies committee gave publicity to a book bearing Parmelee's name and entitled "Nudism in Modern Life."

Dies told the House today Parmelee was dismissed by the Board of Economic Warfare, but since has been employed by the railroad retirement board.

The Texan then shouted: "Time and again, a similar thing has occurred: a bureaucrat exposed in one agency, and fired as a result of that exposure, has been picked up by another agency of the government. The contempt which these bureaucrats have for the Congress which appropriates their salaries is unbounded."

HITS MARSHALL FIELD

At one point, moving away from government employees, Dies asked "what was the reason Marshall Field (owner of the New York newspaper PM and the Chicago Sun) would contribute large sums of money to known Communist organizations?"

"Here is a man who by his great wealth," he said, "is financing publications and organizations that attack not one member, not five members, but the majority of the members of this House as secret sympathizers and agents of our enemies."

Dies asserted that Frederick L. Schuman, chief political analyst of the Federal Communications Commission at $5800 a year, had a record of "Communist affiliations."

Dies included other names of persons he identified, as follows:

William E. Dodd, Jr., Federal Communications Commission; Paul R. Porter, chief of the subbuilding stabilization branch of the War Production Board; John Hering, principal business consultant, Office of Coordinator of Inter-American Affairs; Paul F. Brunsden, consultant in the shipbuilding stabilization committee of WPB.

David J. Sapiro, assistant to the chief of labor division, WPB; Maurice Parmelee, economist, Railroad Retirement Board; Harold Loeb, senior economist in building materials, WPB; Sam Schermer, policy consultant, Social Security Board.

Emil Jack Lever, head labor adviser, WPB; David Lasser, senior labor economist, WPB; Tom Tippett, assistant chief, rest section, OPA.

Henry G. Alsburg, senior feature writer, OWI; David Karr, assistant chief, foreign language division, OWI; Giuseppe Faci, senior foreign language adviser, OWI; David Wahl, associate analyst, Board of Economic Warfare; Hugs Miller, senior attorney, Bituminous Coal Commission; Walter Gelhorn, assistant general counsel, New York office of OPA.

Jack Fahy, principal liaison officer, Board of Economic Warfare; Robert Morris Lovett, secretary of the Virgin Islands; Merle Vincent, director hearings branch, Department of Labor; Gardner Jackson, until recently a Department of Agriculture economist; Alice Barrows, specialist in school buildings, Office of Education.

William Pickens, principal securities promotion specialist, Treasury Department; Arthur F. Goldschmidt, special assistant to the Secretary of the Interior; Marcus I. Goldman, employed by Department of Interior; Leonard Emil Mins, Office of Strategic Services; Henry T. Hunt, special assistant to the general counsel, Federal Works Agency; Mary McLeod Bethune, National Youth Administration.

Harry C. Lamberton, head attorney, Rural Electrification Administration; T. A. Bissell, principal economic analyst, Board of Economic Warfare; Katherine Kellock, Board of Economic Warfare; Jay Deis, senior editor-writer, Federal Security Agency; Milton V. Freeman, assistant solicitor, Securities and Exchange Commission; George Slaff, principal attorney, Federal Power Commission; A. C. Shire, director of the technical division, Federal Public Housing Authority, and Edward Scheuenemann, assistant attorney, OPA.

POINTS PERIL OF INFLATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Mounting concern of Treasury officials over danger of inflation and the need for increased taxation and government borrowing to reduce the public's purchasing power was disclosed today by the House appropriations committee.

In testimony before a subcommittee in connection with the department's financial needs for the next 12 months—first appropriations bill of the 78th Congress—Undersecretary of the Treasury Daniel W. Bell declared:

"There has been a substantial price rise. I do not think it has been enough to materially hurt anybody, but I think the basis is here for tremendous inflation."

"You have all this money going into the hands of individuals, estimated at something like $130,000,000 during this calendar year, and I believe that only about $15,000,000,000 is estimated as the amount that will be taken away in personal taxes."

"This," he explained, "means that people will have $115,000,000,000 to spend, and . . . if there is only $75,000,000,000 worth of goods and services available, then there will be about $45,000,000,000 worth of extra purchasing power which must be saved. If people try to spend it, the pressure on prices will be tremendous."

Major Supply Bill Slashed $10,848,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (INS)—The House Appropriations Committee today reported its first major supply bill of the 78th Congress carrying $1,202,007,320 for the operation of the Treasury and Postoffice departments for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The measure represented a $10,848,000 reduction below budget estimates. The measure will be considered in the House tomorrow.

Of the total amount, $899,282,855 was for the Postoffice Department, a reduction of $7,000,000 under budget estimates, while the balance, $302,724,465, was for the Treasury.

Girl, 9, Plane Crash Heroine

CASTIAC, Cal., Feb. 2 (AP)—A nine-year-old girl hiked five miles over mountains and across streams to care for two Army Air Force fliers, injured in a plane-glider crash.

Marylynn Winkler, daughter of N. C. Winkler, Romero Canyon rancher, reached the two injured fliers, built a fire to warm them, and watched over them for hours until help arrived.

Marylynn took her praise modestly.

"I just couldn't leave them there alone and hurt like that," she said.

N. E. BOMBING PERIL GROWS

"With Hitler's back to the wall, the East Coast today faces a greater danger of bombing than at any time since the United States entered the war."

Joseph M. Loughlin, U. S. regional director, First Civilian Defense Area, made this statement today at the opening session of the first inter-regional civilian defense training conference here.

"Like a wounded wolf brought to bay, Hitler can be expected now more than ever before to make the east coast of America a bombing target," Loughlin continued.

Among those attending the conference were:

some asking Miss Hammond's resignation.

So large did the crowd grow in the hearing room and at the doors pressing to get inside that the committee chairman moved the hearing to Gardner Auditorium. At that time there were an estimated 500 persons present.

HUNDREDS FOLLOW HER

Little more than 15 minutes later—with the chairman insisting that the ouster of Miss Hammond could not be reached today and with committee members arguing among themselves—the former commandant of the Women's Corps walked out of the auditorium.

Most of the hundreds present followed her and Chairman Clampit adjourned the meeting.

After Rep. John H. Carroll, Democrat, had come before the committee and demanded a chance to be heard on the Hammond ouster, the chairman declined to listen.

MISS HAMMOND ASKS

Carroll demanded that an apology be made to Miss Hammond and when the chairman refused, Miss Hammond rose for the second time at the session. The first time she had remained silent and had seated herself, but this time she said:

"I want to be sure. Do I understand there will be no discussion here of the Women's Defense Corps or my ouster?"

Chairman Clampit replied:

"There can be none today."

With a little smile playing about her lips, Miss Hammond started to walk out, the bulk of those in attendance following her and applauding.

Chairman Clampit adjourned the hearing amid confusion.

Woman Murder Confessed by Soldier in R. I.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 2 (INS)—Pvt. Howard Norman Prescott, 29, of Dexter, Me., and Camp Edwards, confessed that he killed Mrs. Avis Macomber, 18-year-old housemaid and wife of another soldier, because he tired of their illicit two-year romance, police said today.

He was held without bail on a charge of murder in the Sunday night tragedy.

The killing, police added, punctuated a quarrel precipitated by Prescott's disclosure to Mrs. Macomber, with whom he had lived as Mr. and Mrs. Macomber, that he was moving his belonging to Buzzard's Bay, near Camp Edwards, where he had fallen in love with another woman.

The towering six-foot, four-inch soldier was lodged in Providence County jail to await hearing Friday.

Prescott, married but separated from his wife, persuaded Mrs. Macomber to leave her husband in Dexter and come to Newport two years ago.

His demeanor in strange contrast to his flashy zoot suit, Folkes stared straight ahead, head bowed, eyes half-closed as Justice of the Peace Victor Olliver read the charge. Then the justice said: "Do you wish to waive preliminary hearing?"

"On advice of my attorney, I don't care to discuss the matter now," responded the Negro without looking up.

TREASURY BARS TAX SKIP BUT WANTS PAY-AS-YOU-GO

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, TUESDAY, FEB. 2, 1943

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2 (AP)—Four white-robed Catholic nuns who left Bougainville island in the Solomons "just one hour ahead of the Japs" said today that seven Marist Order sisters and 20 priests were not so fortunate and became prisoners of the enemy.

Still at large and hiding in the bush is Bishop Thomas J. Wade, vicar apostolic of the northern Solomon islands, who escaped from the Japanese, they told interviewers.

The four, all of the Order of St. Joseph of Orange, were Sister Superior Mary Isabel, Sister Mary Irene, Sister Mary Hedda and Sister Mary Celestine.

With the Japanese only an hour away, "we struggled through the jungle to the beach," Sister Mary Isabel related. "We walked eight hours through the underbrush and jungles—29 of us: three children, nine men, two of them old priests, and 17 others, 14 of them nuns."

Then came the American submarine to take them away. And again they barely missed capture. Said Sister Mary Isabel:

"We learned afterward that an hour and a half after we were gone, the Japanese were on the very spot where we left the beach."

"Most of the party got into a launch. There wasn't room for us, however, so we rode in a rubber lifeboat, towed behind the launch, about eight miles across reefs and shoals and through shark-infested waters to the submarine."

"We lived in the submarine three days and three nights. Then we arrived at Guadalcanal, and from there went to New Zealand, where we went aboard a ship for the United States."

Bishop Wade Well Known in Boston

Bishop Thomas Wade of the Society of Mary, more familiarly known as the Marist Fathers, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John M. Wade of Providence, where he was born. Before he entered the priesthood, he was employed as a jewelry designer in his native city.

Ordained in Washington, D. C. in 1922, Bishop Wade celebrated his first mass at St. Agnes Church, Providence. Six months after his ordination he left for an isolated South Seas mission post.

Conductorettes for El Still a When-If Plan

If and when the need arises for women conductors by the Boston Elevated, the "conductorettes" will be placed in service first on cars operating through the Tremont and Boylston st. subways, company officials said today.

Disclosure that the Elevated is planning to employ women conductors—and possibly women operators—"should manpower become unavailable"—was made by the trustees in their first war report filed with the legislature.

The report announced a net profit of $924,204 for 1942. The first profit in years was reported due to increased riding by citizens whose other means of transportation have been restricted because of war rationing.

GOES TO RESERVE FUND

In December, the trustees reported, the Elevated carried the largest number of passengers in its history, and said traffic in 1942 was surpassed only in 1917 and 1926.

In 1942, the company showed an operating profit of $1,855,853 as compared to an operating loss of $1,583,751 in 1941. The net profit of $924,204 will be applied toward restoration of the road's $1,000,000 reserve fund.

The trustees expect delivery of 12 more buses and 30 trackless trolleys within the next few months.

PREPARE FOR EMERGENCY

"Although no women have as yet been given examination for the position of conductors," the report stated, "a standard of requirements for the position has been set up. How soon the railway will employ women conductors cannot now be determined. We are preparing, however, to employ women in such positions should the need arise."

As to the employment of women as operators, the trustees stated, "should manpower become unavailable to replace the men of our operating force called to the armed services, then the employment of women as operators of cars, buses and trackless trolleys would become necessary."

SEES PERIL—Mrs. Wollington Koo, wife of the Chinese ambassador to Britain, told a Philadelphia audience that China is on the verge of an economic collapse because America has failed to send her supplies.

By ROBERT HUMPHREYS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (INS)—The Treasury Department today proposed to Congress that tax reductions from pay checks start not later than July 1, that the whole tax structure be placed on a "pay-as-you-go" basis, but flatly opposed "forgiving" a year's taxes as advocated by Beardsley Ruml, New York economist.

The Treasury's suggestions were made by Randolph Paul, general counsel, to the House ways and means committee as it opened the hearings on taxation policy.

Paul proposed that approximately the first 19 per cent of tax liability be deducted from pay checks, with "allowances" for regular tax exemptions to ease the burden.

Allowances suggested by Paul were $11 a week for single persons, $26 for a married couple, and $8 additional for each dependent.

"These amounts," he said, "are made somewhat larger than the pro-rated annual exemption in order to incorporate an allowance for average deductions . . . from the gross tax payment."

Thus if a single man's taxes amounted to $15 a week the actual deduction from his paycheck would be that sum less $11, or $4.

"It seems more equitable to collect to at least a substantial degree the tax liabilities which have been imposed by past legislation than to forgive a year's liability and raise the additional revenue by increases in rates," Paul said.

His reasons for this, he said, was that persons in the higher income groups would enjoy an advantage over the lower brackets by cancelling out a year, pointing out that any rate increases imposed to make up for lost revenue would have to be levied on persons of small income "since it is at this level that the income tax is capable of further expansion."

JIM FARLEY SITTIN' PRETTY

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (INS)—The 1944 presidential race is certain to be profoundly affected by the political difficulties of Edward J. Flynn.

James A. Farley's emergence into a key position in Democratic national affairs is forecast as politicians discussed Flynn's decision to have President Roosevelt withdraw his nomination to be minister of Australia.

Farley is anti-fourth term. He has a large following among old-line Democrats and if he should become Democratic national committeeman for New York he would exert great power in the Democratic national convention. His election would be a severe blow to the New Deal.

Flynn's recent resignation as national committeeman throws the election of his successor into the Democratic State Committee, of which Farley is chairman.

It is believed that Farley can have the post of national committeeman if he wants it.

Farley may make his plans when he returns soon from a business trip to Mexico.

RICKENBACKER VOICES PLEA FOR CUT IN ABSENTEEISM

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2 (INS)—Capt. E. V. (Eddie) Rickenbacker charged today that the "perpetual slowdown in war industry caused by absenteeism" has cut production 10 per cent.

Speaking before the Los Angeles Advertising Club, Capt. Rickenbacker asked all war workers, particularly those in the aircraft industry, to cut absenteeism in half.

"It will add sufficient planes and parts to hasten final victory and save the lives of untold thousands of our boys," he said.

"Do not make it necessary to be struck by lightning before understanding your duties to your fellow men and women."

"Do not make it possible, through indifference, complacency, selfishness or greed, to have your homes and cities bombed, with thousands of men, women and children blown to bits."

Rickenbacker gave a detailed account of his recent tour of the Pacific battlefields, during which his plane made a forced landing at sea, and he and his companions floated 21 days on rubber life rafts before being rescued.

"Men and women of America," Rickenbacker said, "if you could only understand what our boys—your boys and mine—are doing in those hell-holes throughout the Pacific and the burning sands of Africa, that your way of life may be preserved and the character that has made this nation great may be carried on, you would not worry about eight hours a day, overtime, or double time for Saturdays and holidays."

NEW GUINEA, Feb. 2 (AP)—A large force of United States B-17 heavy bombers gave Japanese airdromes in the Rabaul area of New Britain the worst blasting they've yet undergone.

The estimate of damage ranged from 20 to 50 enemy planes knocked out of commission. All the Fortresses returned safely.

The last pilot over the target said he counted 20 large fires with a couple of dozen planes silhouetted in the light on the ground. Lakunai, Rabaul's busiest airdrome, was the principal target, but others were hit as well.

Guadalcanal Sweetheart Dainty in Sarong--She's 4

By ROBERT BRUMBY
GUADALCANAL Jan. 18 (delayed) (INS)—Dorothy Lamour has been supplanted as the soldiers' heart throb on Guadalcanal. Their new sweetheart is Princess Patsy Lee, with hair as black as a jungle night and skin the color of coral.

Princess Patsy has been taken to the French sisters at Espiritu Santa.

Fr. Frederick Gehring, formerly of St. John College in Brooklyn, took Princess Patsy away.

The princess was only 4. She found rugged service food difficult to relish. She refused to drink from a canteen, insisting on cups made from palm fronds.

The princess is Chinese and the sabre wounds she bears are evidences of the sadistic Japs. Her parents were killed in a native village. The Japs left the princess for dead. But natives discovered her and brought her to Fr. Gehring.

Princess Patsy was dressed daintily for her voyage to the sisters. Parachutists fashioned a sarong from a bit of orange parachute cloth. A necklace made from shells adorned the princess' throat. She wore tiny sandals woven from glove leather, and around her head she wore an orange turban.

Almost every outgoing plane carries a present to be delivered to the princess at the French sisters.

Fr. Gehring named her Princess Patsy Lee. He lived in China for several years and says that in Chinese Patsy means small and Lee means white flower.

Ruling Delayed On Sagansky

Judge Frank J. Donahue withheld decision in Suffolk Superior Court today on a motion to quash indictments involving alleged lottery offenses by Dr. Harry "Doc" Jasper Sagansky, reputed head of a $90,000,000 numbers pool ring, scheduled to go on trial tomorrow.

Seven motions requesting particulars on the indictments were granted by Judge Donahue. Atty. James M. Graham, defense counsel, sought further information concerning the alleged fictitious lottery of which Sagansky is charged.

The motion to quash was based on Graham's claim the indictments were "defective" and should name the person or persons. Sagansky is charged with "assisting" in the writing and selling of lottery tickets.

TALK OF TRADE AFTER WAR

LONDON, Feb. 2 (AP)—Opening a two-day debate in Commons on economic policy, Earl Winterton, a Conservative party member, said today apart from war comradeship, Great Britain and the United States must treat Russia and China as equal partners in discussions of postwar trade.

"Nothing would so alarm the world and make another war more certain than to try to create a postwar executive British-American plan," he asserted.

Even though the United States now was "by far the greatest industrial and financial power in the world," he said, "she might not remain so for the next 25 years, for the U. S. S. R. or China might take her place."

"There is some suspicion of Russia in some quarters in the United States," he added.

The public, he said, should be constantly impressed with the all-important point that the postwar world will be a "very hard world, indeed."

Nazis Belittle Turkish Pact

By the Associated Press
The Berlin diplomatic correspondent of the German Transocean News Agency described the results of the Churchill-Inonu conferences at Adana as "ineager" in the first German radio reaction recorded in New York by the Associated Press today and said "the material assistance which Turkey is being assured under the agreement is nothing sensational."

"Germany, as a matter of fact, is delivering considerable quantities of armament material to Turkey, and she is bound to Turkey by a friendship pact," Transocean said.

Berlin has known about the Adana meeting for two days and was not surprised by the British communique, the diplomatic correspondent said, adding: "The question now arises: Will the United Nations increase their pressure on Turkey?"

Stassen Sees World Unity

A United Nations of the world was seen today as a necessity in postwar days by Gov. Harold E. Stassen, (R.) of Minnesota, in an address at the Boston City Club.

"China, Russia, the British Commonwealth of Nations, the United States of America, and all of the smaller United Nations, should participate in this governmental structure," he said.

"This United Nations government should have very limited powers. We should substantially retain our domestic sovereignty."

Stassen saw such a post-war organization establishing "temporary governments over the Axis nations."

He praised Gov. Saltonstall, who introduced him to 500 at the luncheon, for "developing in this Commonwealth the outstanding home front defense program of the nation."

Lieut.-Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who would be raised in rank to full general.

This would bring under his command the British Eighth Army, whose advance units already have crossed the Tripolitanian border into Tunisia inland from the coast. A Cairo communique said British and Axis forces exchanged artillery fire yesterday in the coastal sector west of Zuara, near the border, indicating continued Axis rear guard resistance to gain time.

The Americans took Sened about 2 p. m. yesterday under an umbrella of O-40 fighters.

The American column came from northeast of Gafsa and established contact with another force driving south from Sidi Bouzid.

To the north, another American force, flanked by French, was fighting strongly reinforced German detachments in an attempt to wrest back control of Faid Pass, where the Germans won over the week-end in a six-mile thrust toward Sidi Bouzid.

The spokesman described the pass "as a place of tremendous importance" and said "it is apparent that the Germans plan to hold it."

Jewish Leader Says Spain Aids Refugees

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (AP)—Dr. Joseph Schwartz, European chairman of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, said on his arrival from Europe by Clipper that Spain had adopted a tolerant attitude toward refugees from France.

Between 100 to 150 persons have been entering Spain each day from the formerly unoccupied French zone, he said. There has been a general change of feeling in Spain since the occupation of North Africa, he said.

A REPORT TO THE PUBLIC

In which we review 1942 and ask for your co-operation in the war months ahead

Looking back over the year just ended, we believe a report of our operations is of interest and will be helpful and informative to our many riders in Greater Boston.

As the war effort became more intense, an ever increasing number of persons turned to the "El" for transportation. Last December the greatest number of passengers were carried in any month in the railway's history. We have been able to handle the tremendously increased volume of riding because of two factors: first, because of the cooperation of thousands of workers in Boston in staggering their hours of work and riding; and, second, because of the existence of an extensive transit system properly maintained for years past.

In common with all transportation agencies, the Boston Elevated has co-operated with our Government in its conservation programs. As the year 1942 progressed the acute shortages of fuel oil, rubber, and gasoline demanded immediate action.

SAVING 250,000 GALLONS OF FUEL OIL A YEAR

Conversion of oil heating equipment to the use of coal at 11 locations on the railway, including garages, carhouses and lobbies, is saving more than 250,000 gallons of fuel oil on an annual basis.

Complete conversion has been made at all heating plants operated by the railway except at three locations, where only about 4,000 gallons of fuel oil will be used annually.

"GETTING IN THE SCRAP"

In 1942 the railway made available for war purposes more than 24,000 tons of steel, iron and copper scrap. This scrap was made available by the removal of the Atlantic Avenue elevated structure, from abandoned street railway tracks and from the disposal of worn out parts.

SAVING OVER 11,000,000 BUS TIRE MILES

Bus service in duplication of existing rail service was discontinued or curtailed. Bus service furnished on lightly used lines or parts of lines was discontinued or limited to those parts of lines and to those periods of the day when such service was justified under war conditions. The operation of chartered buses for private groups was discontinued except to war plants and for military purposes.

The steps taken are saving well over 11,000,000 bus tire miles on an annual basis and are resulting in substantial savings in gasoline.

NEW EQUIPMENT AND REPAIR PARTS DIFFICULT TO OBTAIN

The delivery to any transit company of new cars, buses and trackless trolleys and of repair parts has been sharply limited by the Government. In 1941, anticipating future difficulties in obtaining equipment, many cars and buses which were in storage were reconditioned. By virtue of this timely planning we believe that we face a crucial year able to perform the task of transporting large numbers of people in a war busy metropolitan area.

SAFETY RECORD

We are pleased to report that the Elevated for the sixth time won national recognition for safety by being awarded in 1942 the American Transit Safety Award. We owe the honor for this award to you—our riders —and to the various agencies and organizations working for safety in the community and especially to our employees for their continuous alertness in the safe operation of cars and buses.

A LOOK AHEAD

In 1943 there will be increasing difficulties in obtaining suitable manpower, replacements, new equipment and necessary repair parts. There will be crowded cars and buses particularly at rush hours. In this respect we ask your understanding and your active co-operation. Here's how you can make your personal contribution to help meet wartime transportation problems:

FIRST: Plan to make your trip between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. or after 6 p.m. Such planning will leave room for essential war workers to get to and from work by "El". If you can possibly help it, please don't take the "El" between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m.—that's the most crowded time of all.

SECOND: Upon entering a bus or car move away from the doors into the less crowded section. You'll help to speed service.

THIRD: Don't crowd into an already full car or bus. Wait for a less crowded one.

FOURTH: Have exact fare ready. A little foresight on everybody's part will save many precious minutes—save time for everybody.

FIFTH: During the dimout, stop the operator with a hand signal. Bright lights are out for the duration, so you'll be more easily seen if you signal with your hand.

WHEN and where needed, we shall furnish transportation services to the limit of the railway's capacity, keeping always in mind, however, that the order of the day calls for the utmost conservation of all transportation facilities, so vital are they to the successful advancement of war objectives.

12 CALL TO UNIFORM FINDS N. E. WOMEN EAGER TO SERVE

to the recruiting office with her sailor fiance, Lester Murphy.

Miss Doyle had intended to make application for the WAVES, but was informed that by regulation a WAVE may not marry a Navy man while in service. Undaunted, Miss Doyle made out an application to purpose was to serve her country where she was most needed.

Join the SPARS, declaring her only another early applicant for the WAVES was Miss Janet Morris of Massachusetts ave., Cambridge, formerly of New York, and a graduate of the University of Syracuse. Miss Morris has been employed in secretarial work and as a social worker, and at present she is driving a delivery truck for the Harvard Co-operative Society. She speaks French and German fluently, and has studied dramatics and singing.

"I want to enlist in the WAVES because I want lots of action in helping to win this war," Miss Morris said.

CHART OF REQUIREMENTS

For those who are not already informed of this great opportunity, there is a coupon accompanying this article, and also a chart showing qualifications for enlistment as to age, educational requirements, physical fitness and general experience.

The coupon may be mailed or brought in person to the Women's Recruiting Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

Each applicant must enclose with the coupon a letter of not more than 50 words, telling why she wishes to join the WAACS, the WAVES or the SPARS.

We emphasize the age limits, because many young people have applied who are under age but anxious to serve. We don't like to curb their enthusiasm, but here are the age regulations:

WAACS, 21 to 44, inclusive; WAVES and SPARS, 20 to 35, inclusive.

Letters by the scores have poured in since the opening of the recruiting office, indicating the sincerity and enthusiasm of young women who seek to serve.

TYPICAL LETTERS

Here is a letter from a "Wish SPAR":

"I would like to apply to be a SPAR because I would like to help win the war. My father was in the last war, and he was in the Navy, so I would like to take his place in this war to help to make peace for the United States."

Here is a letter from a prospective WAVE:

"I am interested in becoming a WAVE in order to develop a trade that will relieve our men of the Navy from training posts here in this country for fighting duty at sea; to meet new friends, and to bring peace, democracy and everlasting prosperity to the rest of the world."

Another girl who hopes to be a WAVE writes:

"Our country—the greatest country in the world—is calling for men and women to join the armed forces. I would like to do my part in this great emergency and feel I have the ability in performing any work to the utmost. I am ready to be called at any time, so why not the present?"

An applicant for the WAACS writes:

"I would like to join the WAACS to serve my country. I will be willing to do any kind of work that will be assigned to me. I would like to serve anywhere in the United States of America or overseas."

And another writes:

"I wish I were a WAAC for more than one reason. I drive a car, so I'd rather drive for Uncle Sam than drive for pleasure. I'd also like to help our fighting boys to win this war against the Axis."

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2 (AP)—Bob Hope, radio and screen comic, has instructed his attorney to drop the suit for $1425 he claimed he loaned his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Hope.

But the sister-in-law, Mrs. Marie Towne Hope, is continuing with her suit against Bob Hope. She claims he owes her $2300 for secretarial service and for cataloging his jokes.

She testified Bob promised her an increase in her $12.50 a week salary, but later said he would give her "a big hunk of bonus" instead so he wouldn't have trouble with his other employees.

She said he told her to just sit tight and wait for the bonus. "I said I had sat tight for so long that I had got calluses and he laughed," she told the court.

Vet WAAC Finds Devens Work Thrill

By AUXILIARY ERMINE
ROMANELLE

OF BERWICK, PENN.
The distinction of being one of the first WAACS to actively serve with the Army is one that I shall always cherish. The day that the awful news of the attack on Pearl Harbor came to America was the day that I resolved that somehow I was going to help my country avenge that disgraceful episode.

When the act creating the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps was passed I was among the first to join and I have thoroughly enjoyed every minute of it. I feel that at least my humble contribution will speed the progress down the road to victory.

Before entering service I had a statistical position in the unemployment compensation commission in Pennsylvania but the assignment here at Ft. Devens in the personnel office at post headquarters is thrilling.

Several other auxiliaries and I in just this one building have been able to replace a number of enlisted men for field duty and as the new WAAC recruits continue to flow in here we will truly be doing the job for which we were organized.

The New England climate agrees with me and I guess if I enjoy it here now, with the severity of this winter, then I shall certainly enjoy the springtime. In common with the boys in the Army, however, our time in any one camp or post is uncertain and who knows, by spring I may be on my way to foreign duty. It is most surprising to me to learn from many of my friends in the barracks that my hope to serve overseas before the war is over is something that they share, too.

Every effort has been made to promote our happiness while we have been stationed here. There have been many fine dances, shows and parties.

WHAT GROUNDHOG SAW TODAY

Fears Fate of Muskrat, Horse—So Flees

By HILLIARD A. SCHENDORF

SUCCASUNNA, N. J., Feb. 2 (AP)—The groundhog slapped a Gremlin with its tail, adjusted its pince nez and buried its nose in the front page of a newspaper.

"Rationing," it mused. "But they couldn't have rationed the weather."

It was getting late. The groundhog was due to make its traditional first appearance of the year, then either dive back into bed or comb its hair to stay topside for a while.

"Only a groundhog never did know anything about the weather," the marmot lisped softly, lest someone hear. "If it did, would it be only a groundhog?"

Where was the weather? All these years, the groundhog had been basing its predictions on the weather reports in the papers.

An adventurous Pixie hung by its feet from the electric light overhead.

"What's the matter, G. H.?" asked the pixie.

"It's the weather," grunted G. H. "I can't find it."

The pixie grinned.

"There's a war on. Haven't you heard? The weather's gone with the gasoline."

Unbelief was registered on the sensitive face of the stocky little animal.

The weather gone? Calamity had struck. Tragedy had visited that little home.

The groundhog picked up a newspaper sadly.

Suddenly it stiffened, as much as a chubby little bundle of suet like a groundhog could stiffen.

The grizzled, reddish-brown fur stood on end electrically. And it wasn't the weather that did it.

The groundhog leaped into bed in a series of amazing gyrations. HORSEBURGERS POPULAR IN SHORTAGE OF MEAT

Washington Finds Muskrat Tasty Substitute for Scarce Beef, Pork and Veal

Thus spake the headlines.

"What an escape," quavered the stricken beast. "Anything could happen, even . . ."

It was just too much.

And so, gentle readers, that is why the groundhog failed to show up in 1943.

LOCAL FLASH (not publication outside of 150-mile zone from Boston):

Declining to be interviewed as to whether he had converted from oil to coal in his winter quarters, Mr. Groundhog today sallied forth for a hasty "look-see."

At the glimpse of his shadow, Mr. G. made a speedy retreat—not even taking time to cash No. 11 sugar coupon. He is expected to return in six weeks.

With his departure came the forecast of "continued freezing temperatures and chilly winds to-night."

HAIL MIKE MAIKOP, HERO INCOGNITO!

By AUSTEN LAKE

There was nothing epic in the external appearance of Mike Maikop. He is, if still alive, a runty man rising fifty with a silver stubble on his leathery chin, sun creases on his neck and twin dribbles of tobacco at the corners of his jaws.

His talk was salted with monosyllabic profanities of the seven seas. His leer was lewd, his aroma pungent and the fingers that gripped his thimble of hooch were less like a human hand, divinely fashioned, than crow claws, permanently ingrained with grime.

By the delicate standard of brahmin Boston, Mike Maikop was not endowed with the parlor graces.

He was something more. Mike was storekeeper on the Golden Ledge, a rust-patched, cderous 4000-ton cargo tramp just back from Murmansk and that hell-corridor known as Denmark Strait. Four of the dozen ships in his convoy had been torpedoed, their frost encrusted decks going down like scuttled ice bergs. If any, merely an anonymous handful had survived in the swift paralysis of wintry waters.

'I DUNNO'

So Mike harrumphed the mucus from his throat and remarked "I dunno" when asked how many of the crews had been rescued. Indeed, long ago he had solved the problem of morbid reflections and discarded grisly items from memory. By some defense mechanism of his mind he repudiated his sordid yesterdays and pawned his tomorrows, collecting today as his only tangible asset.

So we sat in the dingy twilight of an Atlantic ave. bar while Mike sucked liquidity at his foul-smelling pipe and gulped his corrosive fluid with an habitual air of fatalistic contempt. To him the past was a spilled sack of ashes. The future was a spin of the wheel. But today was sweet reality to be dregs.

snatched and drained to the

O Yah, said Mike as one who dredges through his cranial gr pond for cast off experience, he'd been torpedoed three times, and cracked up once on a sand bar. Yah, he'd spent 28 days in an open boat and had four toes on his left foot amputated from frost bite. Yah, and once his ship had hit a floating mine west of the Hebrides. There was that in his manner suggesting surprise that it made any difference, that anybody should care.

SYMBOL OF ANONYMITY

Now Mike, for the purpose of this story, is less of a flesh and blood personality than a symbol of anonymity which represents the unnumbered thousands of merchant mariners who carry essential war goods to our wide flung frontiers—men of polyglot creed and color who shuttle back and forth without thought of romance, heroism or self sacrifice. Their uniforms are oil-smudged dungarees. Their medals are sapper buckles. Their rewards are modest pay and convulsive snatches at liberty. Yet no class of men in the national war effort serve so selflessly with so little credit.

"Why do you do it?" I asked Mike.

"Do what?" he asked with a puzzled pucker. Then, "Oh, the sea? I dunno," and after a brooding pause, "it's my job. What else?"

AFRAID? OH YAH!

There was no articulate poetry in Mike, no limpid larynx, no knack for weighing what Ian Hay calls the "ponderous inexplicables." So he did not describe the sea as an "intoxicant which lured the sailor as a confirmed drunkard to his drink" or as a "malign, sinuous, green-eyed siren of irresistible charm," nor as a "jealous, moody mother with a sadistic streak for devouring its young." Mike merely said, "I dunno."

So I asked: "Don't you ever feel afraid, Mike?" And he said with equal simplicity: "O, yah, sometimes . . ." And after an interval: "When something happens."

One gathered that between "happenings" he lived in a protective shell of self-induced anesthesia, comforted by the philosophy that Fate, in its own good time, turned up every man's card. It didn't do any good to worry about the inevitable. "It don't no good to work at being afraid," he said.

In ports all over the world wherever the ships of United Nations call, one finds the prototype of Mike Maikop, heroes incognito—grizzled geezers and prematurely grim youngsters who forgoth briefly in Halifax, or Liverpool, or Glasgow, or Boston, men and boys who hoist their glasses, talk in homilies and dissolve into the mists of anonymity again.

They are the forgotten men of the global war, nameless and non-descript heroes who hear no hosannas, receive no badges of merit, meet no debutante hostesses to dance away their boredom, derive few benefits from the lavish relief funds, are never greeted by welcoming committees, or see their names in the headlines or official communiques.

CONSTANT RISK

Yet no soldier in the steaming jungles of the Pacific archipelagoes or on Africa's sandy wastes faces more constant risk or performs more vital service. With-out the Mike Maikops and his intrepid breed our war effort would long ago have withered on the stalk.

In the distribution of national recognition and reward they, the merchant sailors, come last on our ledgers. They stand, unaccountably, in one of our national blind spots. Salute to you, Mike Maikop, hero incognito!

'LICK BAD WEATHER,' CABOT URGES FUND DRIVE WORKERS

Total contributions to the Greater Boston United War Fund reached $4,600,000 today as Fund Chairman Charles C. Cabot, pointing out that this amount lagged below last year's returns, urged campaign workers not to let bad weather deter them from making reports on time.

The "Mayor's Day" report luncheon at the Boston City Club tomorrow, at which Mayor Tobin will speak, should be "one of the biggest report days of the campaign," the chairman said in a message to volunteer workers.

Full support of the Fund by Boston members of the WAACS and WAVES was announced by campaign headquarters who said regular contributions were being received from leaders of the First Service Command and the First Naval District.

Said WAAC Auxiliary Bertha Lowry, 26, of Jacksonville, Ill.:

"Since I've been in Boston, I've observed how much the Fund means to men and girls in the service. If every girl in Greater Boston knew this, I'm sure there would be no question of the campaign's success."

'GIVE HALF WEEK'S PAY'

Said WAVE Yoeman Alberta S. Gasset, 22, of Whitman:

"To show the boys in service where they stand, all business girls should donate half a week's pay to the Greater Boston United War Fund."

Six more Boston public schools, bringing the school total to 38, now are "over the top." Fund officials announced. Latest schools to reach or exceed quotas are the High School of Practical Arts, Roxbury; the Everett School, South End; John Winthrop, Dorchester; and the Dudley, Hyde and Martin School, all of Roxbury.

'WRONG MAN' SEEN JAILED

With the arrest in the West End of a shipyard worker, in connection with alleged sex offenses against five small girls, police conferred today with Dorchester court officials in the belief that a man, recently sentenced to serve six months, was sent to jail because of a mistake in identity.

Two Dorchester girls, who now claim the shipyard worker was the man who molested them, previously had accused the other man. Police intend to call the case to the attention of the judge who sentenced him, so as to arrange for his release.

Three additional girls have identified the shipyard worker as their attacker, according to officers of the Joy st. station. When taken in custody, the man was found in possession of clippings telling of a life sentence imposed recently for similar crimes.

He posed as a school physician, police say, and induced the girls, ranging from eight to 12 years of age, to go to a room he had hired in the West End.

Quincy authorities seek to have him placed in a Quincy lineup, to see if any of the several girls recently accosted in that city can identify him.

NEW ORDER WIPES OUT SOME DEPENDENCY DEFERMENTS

the effective date of the order to give those affected time to transfer to other work.

After April 1, non-deferrables who register with the employment service for transfer and give evidence of such registration to their boards will be given 30-day draft stays so jobs can be found for them.

But if the employment service fails to get a job for them and they fail to get one for themselves in the 30 days, McNutt said, "it will be just too bad" and they will be liable to immediate induction.

McNutt warned that men 38 or older should make such transfers as well as younger men because, he said, the recent order making 37 the top draft age "may be raised by executive order at any time."

He said the order did not abolish the 3-A classification because the starting non-deferrable list does not cover many activities outside the essential list, but he remarked that it cut off "the top of 3-A," and added he would "go after others as labor demands became greater."

FURTHER NOTICE

Previously, local boards had been told they would receive "further notice before it becomes necessary to call men with children," but McNutt said the new order constituted the "further notice."

Asked if the order could be construed as an admission that voluntary methods of bringing about switches to essential work had failed, he replied aggressively: "Yes, you might interpret it that way if you wanted to."

The manpower chief said no estimate could be given on the number of men covered by the non-deferrable list because there was no way to tell how many had transferred to other work or already had been drafted.

McNutt made it abundantly clear that "this is only the beginning," says an International News Service dispatch.

"Does this mean that henceforth dependency will not be enough for deferment?" he was asked.

"It is a rather clear indication to all who can read," he said.

"Mind you, this is not the final list. It is not permanent. It will be enlarged as the demands for manpower become greater."

"My advice to employers in the non-essential fields is to hire women, older people and those physically handicapped."

The drastic action came as a prelude to the government's efforts to recruit 6,400,000 persons this year to meet the labor requirements of war industry and to put 10,000,000 men in uniform.

McNutt estimated that 3,200,000 workers for war industries could be obtained by transferring them from non-essential jobs. Today's order is the first "mandatory" step. Employees in the 70 non-essential groups, who are of military draft age, may obtain 3-B classifications only if they transfer to one of 35 activities previously listed by the WMC as "essential" to the war effort.

"Dependency is an important factor," McNutt said, "but to justify its acceptance as a ground for deferment, a worker must also be making a contribution on the home front."

The WMC's list of essential activities includes plane and ship production, farming, coal mining,

Russell, Rail V.-P., to Retire

Arthur P. Russell, for 13 years vice-president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, will retire March 1 after 55 years active service, the line's trustees announced today.

He will maintain his present office in South Station to continue in a consulting capacity at the request of the trustees.

He entered the New York and New England Railroad Co. as an office boy in 1888 and remained after the merger with the New Haven in 1898. Prior to federal control in 1918, Russell was in charge of property valuation and later remained as federal counsel.

He was appointed vice-president in 1920. He served on the Boston Common Council, 1897-1898, and in the House of Representatives for four years.

HUB CITY COUNCIL TO HOLD HEARINGS ON BUILDING CODE

The Boston City Council will hold public hearings on the proposed new city building code, Councilor Isadore H. Y. Muchnick of Dorchester, said today. Date and place of the hearings will be announced later, he said.

A part of the proposed code, on which a committee of experts has been working for the last three years, was submitted to the council for action by Mayor Tobin, and subsequent installments will be presented as they are completed.

In a message to the Council accompanying the code, Mayor Tobin explained that the recommendations do not call for any general safety inspection or enforced improvement of existing conditions.

Members of the code committee, however, said they had given careful consideration to exits and egresses, to various types of doors, the swing of doors and the hardware controlling doors.

"General safety regulations," the committee recommended, "should be specifically applicable to so-called night clubs and all other places where the public gather."

SAVE GAS

TO GUARD A SOLDIER'S LIFE

GAS is vital to making the weapons that give our boys "enough and on time." It's the Nation's number one fuel for heat-treating metals. That won't surprise you when you think of the un-equaled speed, controlled heat, and flexibility that you know so well in cooking with gas right in your own kitchen.

Today, gas is needed in huge quantities by war industries in Greater Boston. This company must supply this tremendously urgent need.

Coal and oil required in the manufacture of gas must be transported over great distances and at the present time transportation problems are critical. To help insure a sufficient gas supply to keep war industries at top production, it is your patriotic duty — as long as the present fuel shortage exists — to use less gas.

In this way, you will help give that boy of yours — and his mates — all that it takes to win in the shortest possible time. And as you save gas now, you protect this vital service in your home and in the homes of 260,000 other families in Greater Boston.

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN SAVE GAS NOW:

1. Do not use gas cooking oven or top burners for heating your kitchen.
2. Economize in cooking by having more one-dish meals, by keeping burners clean, and by using less water when cooking vegetables.
3. Reduce use of hot water: Repair leaking faucets. Take fewer baths.
4. If you have gas heating equipment, set thermostat at 65° during day and 60° at night. Prevent heat loss by insulation, storm windows, or weather-stripping.

We thank those thousands of customers who—in answer to our earlier requests—are using less gas in their homes during these unusual times.

"Julie, it don't seem like such a heavy wash now that I got so MUCH MORE SUDS!"

Mrs. Ellen Poehler of New York City tells her friend, Mrs. Julie Cline, how making the "milk-bottle suds test" showed how much more suds and longer-lasting suds now Super Suds gives.

"I couldn't wait to tell my friend, Mrs. Julie Cline," Mrs. Poehler went on. "She's got a big wash just like I have. And, believe me, those thicker, richer suds sure save work while you're washin'. After I told Julie my experience with Super Suds, naturally she began to use it. She says, too, that even things like work-clothes aren't near as hard to get clean with Super Suds."

GUESS there isn't much use in our telling you how women have always wanted more suds and longer-lasting suds. If you've done very much washing, you know. And as soon as you begin washing with new sudsier Super Suds, you'll know it's the soap for you, too. Because, lady, your tub or washer will sure bear out what the "milk-bottle suds test" shows...that Super Suds gives MORE SUDS, LONGER-LASTING SUDS, HARDER-WORKING SUDS!

MAKE THE "MILK-BOTTLE SUDS TEST" AND SEE FOR YOURSELF!

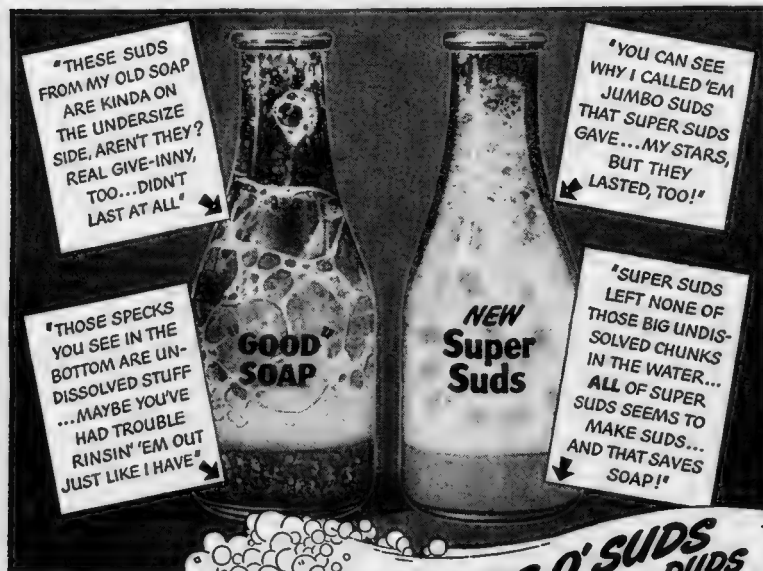

Shake up two teaspoons of your regular wash-day soap and a glass of water in a milk-bottle. Do the same with Super Suds in another milk-bottle. Even cold water will do. Then see the difference in suds. See if there aren't MORE SUDS, LONGER-LASTING SUDS from Super Suds!

"Another thing I told Julie was how good my hands feel since I been usin' new sudsier Super Suds. Naturally, I use it for dishes, too, and for all cleaning around the house. It's a wonder to me how soap that's so hard on dirt can be so easy on hands. It must be all those extra-rich suds again. They're what do the cleanin'...not anything strong added to the soap."

Dirty towels no chore any more

Here's what Mrs. Anna Handeler of New York City says: "My men-folks are awful hard on towels. And they used to be some chore to get clean. Super Suds, by givin' so much more suds and longer-lastin' suds, makes it much easier to get 'em white, though. Besides, they wear better because they don't take such a beating in the wash!"

You Need 'Magic Glove' These Days

YOU CAN BE BEAUTIFUL—Madeline LeBeau probably pumped up a bike tire before she started off on this shopping trip... and maybe she even plucked some of those vegetables from a roadside garden... in which case she'd liked to have used such a preparation as Arline Gould describes today, a protective "magic glove."

WOMAN SEEKS WAR JOB AT 52

FEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I'm a widow, and my family of four are grown and married. I live alone on a farm and have raised lots of cattle, pigs and chickens, and rent the ground to other farmers.

My fences need rebuilding, but I can't get any help as all the younger men are in camp. I am 52 years old, but easily pass for 45, am spry, intelligent, quick to learn and a good worker. At my age and with my ability, could I get a job in a defense plant? Or am I too old? I think I could rent my farm, and then get a job, but I don't want to rent my property unless I am sure of obtaining work in a defense factory. I've had some experience in a shoe factory. A.E. I've known of several instances where women over 60 have been employed in defense work. It's not so much a question of age as of health, intelligence and ability to hold down a job.

In your case, I think it might be well to perfect your plans for renting your farm, see that you have a good tenant, and that the legal end of the transaction is well looked after by a capable lawyer before you apply to the U. S. Employment Service for getting a job. I'm sure there will be no difficulty in providing you with one.

CARELESS SMOKER!

IN A BUSINESS office it is very important that you ask permission before smoking. And remember, it's just as careless to spill cigarette ashes in the office as in a friend's home.

ONCE UPON A TIME you made a great to-do about your prowess in gardening... you probably patted the peat around the tootsies of the roses, after someone dug them properly in. Today you'll dig, and fork the fertilizer in place, and then go and put away the mucky tools yourself. This is the time when you really need those marvelous new discoveries in hand protectives we've been announcing here.

Once everyone thought you were terribly smart because you could duck your head under the hood of the motor, and point to a disconnected wire that was causing all the trouble. Today, you'll point, but you'll also put the thingamajig together yourself, getting thick, oily black grease on your face as well as your hands. You need a "magic glove," a protective if you apply it before you go to work, a cleanser if you use it like soap, with water.

You may be even more serious about things than home gardening, or chicken raising, or doing home plumbing and repairing... you may be right there in a defense plant, working in the thick of atmospheric grime, with grease as inescapable as rain drops in a storm.

Then... you'll want to have on hand, always... a jar of this "magic glove," which for 79 cents, plus tax yields 16 fluid ounces... enough for about 75 applications.

OFFICE WORKERS NEED IT, TOO

Office workers appreciate it just as much as factory or defense workers... for "magic glove" literally clothes the hands with a greaseless film that repels all sorts of grime, no matter how drastic it is.

It's been compared to a "second skin," because once it's been applied there is no grease, no moisture. It will last until you wash it off, and it makes the washing much easier than ever before... leaving your hands incredibly clean, when you consider what they've been through!

To learn about this new hand protective aid, phone Arline Gould, LJBerty 4000, except the weekend, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HEARTY SOUPS

Return to Tables

By MARTHA LEE

WITH THE VIRTUAL retirement of the tin can as a household prop—it takes more time and considerable more thought to prepare our meals.

While the bouillon cube is still with us, we will certainly have to relearn the art of soup making or be limited in much of our culinary yens. "Dehydrated soups have come to partial rescue, and what's left of canned soups will be rationed.

But it's back to soaking the black beans, the lentils and the split peas for us. It's really not too much trouble if you confine your efforts to the hearty soups that can do for a meal in themselves.

The for-the-looks-of-it soups without much nourishment are out if you're as busy as we think you are. Looking at it this way, time spent in soup making means saving in food bills and actual meal preparation.

Let's see some good soups that, with a salad and a good dessert, make a meal.

LOUISIANA SOUP

1 lb. dried lima beans 5 to 8 cups water
Ham bone 1 cup minced carrot
3 onions ½ cup minced green pepper
12 peppercorns 1 small can tomatoes
½ bay leaf
Soak the lima beans 1 hour or more. Put part of a ham bone, the beans, onions, peppercorns and bay leaf with the water. Cook slowly until the beans are tender. Reserve 1½ cups whole beans. Force the remainder of the beans stock through a sieve. Return the whole beans to the stock, add the carrots, green pepper and tomatoes. Cook until tender. If there are bits of ham adhering to the bone, mince and add to the soup. This soup with croutons is sufficient for a dinner when it is followed by a green salad and a light dessert.

BUTTERMILK BEET SOUP

8 large beets Salt and pepper
1 large onion Chopped parsley
4 cloves Sour cream
¼ tsp. celery seed
Boil the beets until tender, remove skins. Place sliced beets and onions in 3 cups of water and simmer for 2 hours with seasonings. Sieve the beets and onion until smooth. Add 1 quart buttermilk before serving. Reheat and serve garnished with floating sour cream sprinkled with chopped parsley.

PARSLEY SOUP

1½ cups parsley ¼ tsp. tabasco sauce
½ tsp. salt 1 tsp. celery salt
1 cup water Few grains pepper
4 tbsp. fat 1 tbsp. butter
1 qt. flour Paprika
1 qt. top milk or thin cream

Wash and chop parsley. Place the parsley, salt and water in a quart glass or enamel saucepan, cover and boil gently over low heat for 10 minutes. Melt the fat in a 1½ qt. heat resistant glass saucepan; stir in the flour and gradually add the top milk or thin cream. Cook the milk mixture over a low flame until slightly thickened and thoroughly cooked, about 10 minutes. Add the tabasco sauce, celery salt and pepper to the cooked sauce. Remove from the fire, add the parsley and the water in which it was cooked. Pour the hot soup into soup cups and place a dot of butter and dash of paprika on top of each dish of soup. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SHUN MILITARY SLANT

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE DESIGNERS who make clothes have gone out of their way to steer clear of putting military influences into clothes that women civilians will wear this spring.

And this is okay, and in accordance with the wishes of men in uniform, who like their ladies to look most un-military. But, I notice that there is more braid used to trim spring clothes than I have seen for a long, long time. It may be military braid, and it often is as like it as a twin brother, but the way it's applied it doesn't look that way at all.

Anthony Blotta, who is a master suit maker, for instance, trims a number of his best suits with braid, but he uses said braid for a strong color contrast, and to give decorative patterns to pockets and jacket edges. You'll love his braid trimmed suits, one of which is sketched.

This model is made of pastel blue fine wool, and it is trimmed with warm brown braid, which edges the lapels and collar, the front and hem of the jacket, and trims the double-flap pockets.

Gold Star ★ Heroines

By ALICE BISSELL

ONE DAY last September, Mrs. Margaret Barter of Gilman st., Somerville, was sitting in the kitchen waiting for her children to get up for breakfast. And through her head swarmed incessant thoughts . . . the same, week after week.

The South Pacific—what was it like? Was its beaches like those in New England? The Solomons? Where were they? The same old map was laid out on the table. On what curve of the island is Clifford now? What is he doing this morning, so far east you cannot imagine?

Suddenly she jumped up. She heard a voice which seemed to come from the back stairs, crying out, "Ma!"

It was the voice of one of her sons. But it couldn't be. They were asleep.

"Ma," the voice cried again, this time as in desperate pain.

It was the voice of her son, Clifford. She ran down the stairs. The outside door was bolted.

"Clifford was here," Mrs. Barter screamed.

Her children, the doctor, and the minister tried to help her. The shock lasted for weeks. On rainy evenings Mrs. Barter said she walked aimlessly through the streets, thinking of the voice upon the stairs which had seemed so real.

MRS. MARGARET BARTER AND SON, CLIFFORD

Strange "Voice" Taught Somerville Gold Star Mother Lesson

"In October, when a telegram came announcing that Clifford, a private, first class, in the Marines, had been killed in the South Pacific, I had no strength to take it," Mrs. Barter said. "The voice, which had been my imagination, was as real and upsetting as the fact of his death.

"I still hate to speak of Clifford's death, but perhaps I can pass something along to other people who are worrying about their boys. The story of the voice is the lesson I learned.

"It is easy to imagine things. I have heard many mothers speak of visions, of mystic experiences, of mental telepathy, as they try to get close to their sons though they are thousands of miles away.

"For mothers like myself, who have thought about little but their families and their homes, it is frightening. Suddenly you find yourself living in an unreal world, one you have made, where you can even hear him speak, and you have forgotten your own life and the more important the happiness of those around you."

Mrs. Barter believes that control is the most important thing now, with concentration on what goes on about her.

"It is too easy to catch hold of a hope and live by it, even though it's just a wish in our own minds.

"Let us all remember that the same spirit watches over us no matter where we are, watches to make our lives better and does not try to confuse us in its greatness."

Mrs. Barter also feels that too many mothers who have been notified of their sons' death in battle are refusing to believe it.

"What mother would believe it? We will always feel there is a spark of hope, that maybe there has been an error. But we must accept the fact that the War Department is probably correct."

With her feet on the ground again, and her mind dwelling on her own surroundings, Mrs. Barter works hard at home and cherishes a letter written to her from one of her son's comrades, swearing that the boys in his outfit will avenge Clifford's death.

She likes to read the following little poem Clifford wrote for his grammar school magazine when he was only 12 years old:

Life is like a windmill, always turning 'round,
Taking you 'most any place, no matter where you're bound.
But if you are happy, you take life like a song,
No matter what may come or go, you still keep plodding on.

"And the only voice is Clifford's blessed one inside my heart which says to me . . . 'Ma! we will meet soon enough. You keep strong and keep home the same, while you can,'" she said.

SHOULD A WOMAN doing a man's work be paid a man's wages? American women think so. British women, however, appear to be not of the same opinion. All that feminine workers doing men's work in British industries ask is: to be paid 85 per cent of what the males are being paid. English women generally seem to have quit a feeling of awe for the male sex. English wives are notoriously docile, they do what they are told by their husbands and ask no questions. It is said that not one English husband in a million turns his pay check over to his wife. In fact it has been claimed that nine out of 10 English wives do not know what the amount of their husband's salary is.

SIDELIGHTS: In obtaining meat English hotels and restaurants have no advantage over the housewife. Every now and then the British food administrator orders meat off all hotel and restaurant menus for a period of two weeks so the home managers can be given a chance to get what they need . . . The Happy Valley racetrack in Hong Kong is holding a meeting which is supervised by the Japs. An English prisoner is the leading jockey . . . In our Revolutionary Army of 1776 there were 695 Kellys, 494 Murphys and 221 Burkes. Capt. Colin C. Kelly was a descendant of a Kelly who fought in the Revolutionary War.

ASIDES: Statements that men of the armed forces prefer any particular type of girl such as blondes, brunettes, red heads, etc., are ridiculous. Our fighting men are the same as other men; they don't care what color hair a girl has if she is sympathetic, affectionate and has a good sense of humor . . . Note a statement that John McGraw stated the "pitcher was 75 per cent of a baseball team." I claim such a statement should not be made. Mr. McGraw should have said "the battery is 75 per cent of a ball team." A good pitcher is practically worthless without a good catcher. Furthermore it is really the pitcher and catcher working together who do the pitching.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: Greer Garson's off screen name is Mrs. Eileen Evelyn Greer Snelson. Despite what seemed to be the belief of the majority of viewers of the Hollywood scene I think Greer will marry Richard Ney after the war. Reason she didn't marry him before was that due to a technicality her divorce did not become final when she expected it to . . . During the first World War it took 390 days to build a 10,000-ton freighter. The Kaiser organization is now building the same type of freighter in 10 days or less.

WOMEN, ETC.: There is only one living ex-president of the United States but there are five living ex-President's widows,

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Mrs. Grover Cleveland and Mrs. William H. Taft are the five former First Ladies who are still with us. That the women live longer than men is something we all know but there are a number of theories as to why such a situation exists. One expert claims the reason women live longer is because they are interested in more things than men. This interest keeps their brains active and a busy brain aids in the matter of living to a ripe old age.

For instance, is there really a woman named Polly Wog? A—All quaint names mentioned in this department are genuine. Mrs. Polly Wog lives in Missoula, Mont. I received a Christmas card from her and her husband whose name is Ollie. Q—What is the most valuable asset of a racehorse? If and when you own a racing stable what would you most like to see your horses have? A—Best thing a racehorse can have is controllable speed. The best racehorses run as asked to by the jockey. They conserve their speed when asked to and turn it on when the jockey wants them on. All right, don't take my word for it. Ask George Woolf or Earl Sande.

PLEASE NOTE: Francis X. Bushman says that at one time in his career he suffered from rheumatism. He was advised to give up meat which he did for seven years and during that time his rheumatism not only disappeared but he never had a cold and had three times his usual energy. ASKED IF WIVES SHOULD MOVE TO TRAINING CAMP TOWNS

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, MONDAY—I had a letter the other day enclosing some clippings from a paper in a city which has become tremendously overcrowded because of war activities. The clippings urged that women whose husbands are in training in that neighborhood should remain at home as a patriotic duty and not attempt to be with them while they are still in this country.

The letter accompanying these clippings stated that when a man was in training, the probability was that he would soon be ordered out of the country and that, if it was possible, it seemed only right that his wife and children, if he had any, should be near him. What did I think was the right procedure to follow?

IT IS A DIFFICULT QUESTION, because I do know that in many places, the Travelers Aid Society and all the local groups are attempting to find places for strangers to live and to tide them over until they have found a place. Every such agency is overburdened.

When a city becomes overcrowded, it is not just the lack of housing which is felt by all the residents. It is harder to get laundry work done and to buy food, transportation facilities are overtaxed, schools are overcrowded, places of entertainment are constantly filled to the limit. For the people who regularly live in that city, it is a difficult and often a disagreeable situation.

THIS IS ENHANCED if the relatives and friends of the men in training require much assistance and, in addition, complain of the hardships which they have to endure.

Yet, when all is said and done, if the man is going to leave this country on foreign service, and if his wife and children are willing to try to be with him until the last minute, I think everything should be done to make it possible.

It will require self-restraint on the part of the visitors, but all of us are citizens of a great country which is at war and these hardships are part of the war. Therefore, I think we must try to approach the situation with good will on both sides.

SOME OF MY SADDEST LETTERS come from the young newly marrieds, who have no children and who know when the man goes off, they must go back to a job so that they will not find the hours dragging.

Every minute that they can have with the man of their choice is like the pearl of very great price hidden in the oyster, because it is surrounded by so much that is ugly and hard to face.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—Julie Hayden was seen about town wearing heavy red wool stockings to a glamour-date . . . Ella Logan, the Scottish lass, in slacks . . . Henry Kisselbarger, through the Waldorf lobby . . . you wouldn't expect him to stroll, would you? . . . Because Ruthie Lane, who produced the new show at Leon and Eddie's, is an alumnae of the chorus ranks the chorines there are working harder than they ever did—all in honor of their new boss. She has the belles on their toes, so to speak.

ANN MACE, the Amazon beauty of Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe, has finally found herself a boy friend her own size. He's Aviation Cadet Robert Millwood, whose 6-inch 4 inches gives him a one-foot advantage over his quart size glamour girl . . . Sharp contestant for the title of eatingest entertainer in town is Carmen Amaya, the flamenco dancer. She sits around between shows in the kitchen of La Conga surrounded by members of her vast family, and stows away heavily spiced dishes. It's part of Carmen's contract that Mama Amaya can cook in the kitchen of any nitery where she works . . . The Cub Room Romeros who glared because Guy Kibbee was in with the prettiest belle in the place should have investigated further . . . She was his niece, Virginia Kibbee.

JOY HODGES and James Melton exchanging thrills on Sutton pl. . . Al Jolson and Moss Hart indulging in their favorite pastime—swapping bad movies at intermission period at the Alvin (Moss traded "The Black Swan" for Al's "The Foolish Virgin") . . . Larry Adler, the harmonica whiz, and Luther Adler, the actor, meeting for the first time in Reuben's and discovering that they're both "Lawrence Adler" on their birth certificates, and that they have children born on the same day, at the same time.

BOSTON

after DARK

By GEORGE HOLLAND

NO ONE COULD BE LESS DESIROUS of adding to the winter-time travail of Commr. of Public Works and Master of Snow Removal George Hyland, City of Boston, than this sympathetic department . . . Nonetheless, the commish or someone in his department would seem to need a bit of jogging in behalf of the several private hospitals in the city confines . . . If the commish could have seen stretcher-bearers trying to pass their human freight over ridges and snow-banks in the Roxbury Sierras wherein the Jewish Memorial Hospital is situated yesterday, he would have been reaching for a snow-shovel himself (as certain passers-by actually did).

A QUICK CHECK OF THE PROBLEM indicates that private institutions such as St. Margaret's Hospital, the Harley Hospital in Dorchester, and some of the famous institutions in the Parker Hill section do not get attention from the snow-removers in sufficient time.

TODAY wouldn't be too soon to get something done about helping Old Sol clear a path to the hospitals, small and big, where the work of community mercy goes on ceaselessly . . . Howabout it, Mister Hyland?

HENRY DUFFY AND MRS. DUFFY, who was Dale Winter of Chicago and a famous lady in her own right before Henry became the Belasco of the Pacific Coast, arrived in town today . . . There was a Mrs. Henry Duffy before Miss Winter of Chicago changed her name to that of her red-haired spouse fifteen (or so) years ago.

THAT EARLIER Mrs. Duffy's professional name was Ann Nichols . . . As author and producer of a farce-comedy titled "Abie's Irish Rose," Ann Nichols (Duffy) piled up a huge fortune . . . As producer of stock companies up and down the West Coast, Henry Duffy made himself wealthy and famous too . . . He went into partial eclipse when the Bull Market Crash leveled off the plutocracy of the turbulent 'twenties . . . But the Duffy star began to flicker again a few seasons ago, and it is now shining steadily in the theatrical firmament by reason of a satellite known to the astronomers of show-business as Edward Everett Horton.

THAT NAME HAS A YANKEE ring—Edward Everett Horton . . . The surname is about as California-ish as the codfish on the State House wall, or the firm that made codfish a nationally known product . . . The Edward Everett combination of talent tag is certainly familiar locally . . . The Man Without a Country was penned by Edward Everett Hale, as every Boston school-boy knows . . . When we see Mr. Horton tonight or tomorrow, we must track down his ancestry, although it seems certain he traces back to these parts.

EDWARD EVERETT HORTON is catching up with delayed renown in Boston at this time by virtue of a good comedy named "Springtime for Henry," currently at the Colonial . . . The names of Acton Horton and "Springtime for Henry" are becoming as intertwined as those of the late Denman Thompson and "The Old Homestead," or Bill Coburn and "The Better Ole" . . . There is a reason . . . The play was made for Mr. Horton and vice versa . . . Strangely enough, Edward Everett of California (and probably remotely of Boston) did not create the role . . . Which brings us to our story's point.

MR. HORTON DID NOT CREATE the starring role in "Springtime for Henry" because he was busy in pictures and plays in California when the play was produced . . . So too, at that time, Henry Duffy was re-creating the theatrical empire which made him a millionaire (before the crash) . . . But Mr. Horton was no part of that empire.

BLUNTLY, HE AND MR. DUFFY were bitter rivals a pair of decades ago in "those good old days" . . . Neither needed the other . . . Mr. Horton was proprietor of a Los Angeles theater called the Majestic . . . He owned the same sort of devoted following which John Craig once owned at the Boston Castle Square Theater . . . (And netted about $5000 a week—regularly) . . . Mr. Duffy owned and operated the El Capitan, another famous Los Angeles theater . . . He operated the Alcazar in San Francisco.

ONE WHO KNEW THE three-cornered rivalry in the legitimate theater of California (an active and aggressive gentleman named Louis MacLoon was the third rival) would not credit his eyes if he gave a once-over lightly to the Colonial Theater's billboards this week . . . The billing reads: "Henry Duffy presents Edward Everett Horton in 'Springtime for Henry' . . . That's why the Duffys are in Boston today . . . Producer Duffy and his lovely wife wished to pass a little time with Edward Everett Horton, the man without regrets of the days when he and his producer were business enemies.

GIVING THE PUBLIC an idea of what has happened in the taxicab business locally, "medallions" (the tin shields which signify ownership of a hacking license) are selling at $550 each . . . In October, four were sold for $200 each . . . Before war was declared in the fall of 1941, "medallions" could be bought for $100 each.

TWO-YEAR-OLD TO PLAY COOKIE ROLE IN 'BLONDIE' SERIES

By Louella O. Parsons

Copyright, 1942, by International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 2—"Buy a Bond and Become a Movie Star" might well be the slogan of 2-year-old Marjorie Anne Mutchie who, today, is launched on a career as "Cookie" in the "Blondie" series. The way the baby got the job is enough to send all infants out bond buying: Her father, who is an assistant production engineer at the California Shipbuilding Corp., took little Marjorie Anne down to the Victory House in Pershing sq. to buy a $1000 bond. She was so cute signing up for Uncle Sam that they took a picture of her and sent it to Columbia, where they have been searching the highways and byways for a screen baby daughter for Dagwood (Arthur Lake) and "Blondie" (Penny Singleton).

PENNY SINGLETON

"Cookie," or Marjorie Anne, makes her debut with Arthur and Penny and Baby Dumpling (Larry Simms) in "Blondie Buys a Horse." What's more, she gets a contract for the entire series which will probably go on forever—the newspaper cartoon (appears daily in the Boston Evening American) is so popular with Joe Public.

YOUNG JIMMY ROGERS has always refused to trade on his famous dad's name and every contract he signs as a movie actor has such a stipulation. But Will would have been proud of his young son, who has plugged along in his chosen profession. He is now with Harry Sherman and will play the character of William Byrd's sidekick in the popular "Hopalong Cassidy" series. Harry has lost one actor after another to the Army but Rogers, who is married and has two children, is signed on a seven-year contract so he is probably with Sherman for keeps.

JUST PUT in an inquiry to find out how Leon Errol was feeling after his battle with the flu when I heard the good news he is to have a swell role in Dick English's story, "Trombone From Heaven," at Universal studios. I am glad because Leon is one of the ablest comedians on the screen and we need actors these days who can make us laugh. Dick is doing all right, too. He has moved into the Samuel Goldwyn studio to work on Bob Hope's script, "The Pirate," and with Dick's sense of humor Bob will get plenty of funny situations and gags.

WHEN RICHARD QUINE gets his final divorce in October he is going to ask little Susan Peters of "Random Harvest" fame to marry him. Just when the wedding will take place no one can say because Richard goes into the Coast Guard in March.

THE LETTER BOX: A cheerful letter comes from Frances Farmer's brother, with the good news she is very much improved . . . John Golden doesn't know whether to be peeved with me, or pleased, in his wire: "Our box office is snowed under with mail and telephone orders for tickets since you printed that Paul Muni might close in 'Counselor at Law' to return to the movies. Would appreciate it if you would print that Muni remains with the show." Well, I'm glad I helped the box office . . . Mrs. Harry Houdini, widow of the famed magician, writes she has been very ill since December and that she is expecting her husband's brother to fly out from New York to take her home as soon as she is able to travel.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Patti Brill, RKO starlet, and Red Knight, M-G-M player, have set St. Valentine's Day for their wedding: Wayne Morris flew out to Hollywood on leave just to spend a few hours with his little son, who is here with his ex-wife, Bubbles Shinnas; Andy Devine, the only fat man in captivity who doesn't want to lose weight, has lost 10 pounds from a siege of the flu; Mickey Rooney startling the M-G-M natives by waiting on table in the commissary. Reason—because Harry James and Tommy Dorsey, his two favorite band leaders and their bands, were eating there: Mimi Chandler's sister, Mrs. John Gregg, is testing at Paramount. They are both daughters of Sen. "Happy" Chandler; those close to Kay Kyser and Georgia Carroll won't be surprised if they announce their engagement; who put the diamond and ruby engagement ring on Betty Hutton's finger, or is it just a hangover from her last engagement?

CRAIG STEVENS has returned from Florida for special work for the Signal Corps, which accounts for Alexis Smith's happy smile; Jesse Lasky and Paul Whiteman dining at the Brown Derby to discuss George Gershwin's life. Whiteman certainly knew Gershwin well and was the first to introduce "Rhapsody in Blue"; Carmen Miranda and her sister entertained five "good neighbors" at the Brown Derby. That's all today. See you tomorrow!

SMART SET TRADITION

Hints Kay Altar-Bound

By BETTY ALDEN

ACCORDING to tradition Katharine Warner of Milton should be society's next bride. Kay caught Edith Shaw Kirkbride's wedding bouquet the other day, laughed off a lot of good natured teasing about it and steadfastly refused to give any hint as to which of her cavaliers the lucky man might be.

The springlike green gowns worn by the bridesmaids seemed to set a fashion keynote for the feminine guests, practically all of whom wore gay spring bonnets with their dark furs. Mrs. Sohler Shaw, mother of the bride, was gowned in powder blue with a silver fox cape and a small blue hat adorned with blue, chartreuse and rose ostrich tips.

Mrs. Gardiner Fiske, who walked to Leslie Lindsey with her husband and the Bob Almys, wore a scarlet feather turban above her black furs. Blonde Mrs. Almy was dressed in a lush blue and honey tweed rector over a honey dress. The bride's cousins, Mrs. George Baty Blake, Jr., and Mrs. John Coburn were two of the most attractive guests, the former in a chartreuse flower hat and brown ensemble, and the latter in an amethyst dress, stitched black velvet beret and platinum fox jacket.

Mrs. William Bayne, whose daughter, Pat, was a bridesmaid, sported purple orchids on her hink coat and other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gould, Mrs. Robert Truesdale, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Whiteside, Miss Louise Coburn, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Atherton and the John Kennedys, the latter in a striking mustard velvet beret and mustard gloves to brighten her black broadtail coat.

ROUND AND ABOUT . . . Mothers and daughters, who are so wrapped up in war work they seldom have time to see each other, are now making definite dates for luncheon just as they do with their friends. Yesterday, Mrs. F. Wadsworth Busk and her deb daughter, Kitty, both of whom stick faithfully to a regular routine at the Red Cross, had a luncheon date at Schrafft's. Both were sturdy tweed outfits brightened with colorful scarves tucked inside their coat collars. At a nearby table was another mother and daughter twosome, Mrs. Whipple Fry, a live wire when it comes to executive work, and Margie, who has a job for the duration at an uptown jewelry shop. Margie's fiancé, Craig Campbell of Cambridge, is with the Yanks in the Pacific.

Patty Matz, Harriet Wilson and Maude Howe walked over from the Junior League to lunch together, Patty in a cute gray Lanz suit, Harriet in a Scotch plaid refter and Maude in a leopard coat topped by a brown and tan checked cap made just like a man's visored cap.

Mrs. Renouf Russell, Jr., who is staying with her mother in Pride's Crossing while her husband is overseas, looked as modish as ever as she lunched alone. With her beaver princess coat she wore a perky black chenille hat on her blonde curls. Ann and Joan Griess made a twosome, Ann wearing a white fascinator over her dark bob, and Joan wearing a black chenille snood above a tailored gray menswear suit.

CHARACTERISTIC of many wartime weddings will be the simple informal service at which Mary Norma Murray of Boston and Milford will be married to Lieut. Thomas E. Ervin of Middleport, O., next Sunday, Feb. 7, in Washington, D. C. Both the bride-to-be and her fiancé are stationed in Washington.

The couple's engagement is announced by Mary's parents, Judge and Mrs. William A. Murray. Mary graduated in 1937 from Wellesley.

SCIENCE DISCOVERS VITAMIN B₁ NECESSARY TO HELP TRANSFORM BREAD INTO ENERGY

Photomicrograph of Vitamin B₁ Magnified 1000 Times. In One Year An Adult Needs 121,545 Units Of Vitamin B₁

The Hidden Energy In Bread Is Unlocked By Vitamin B₁ To Give You The Energy You Need

Government looks to the wives and mothers of the nation to give their families the right kind of food.

Yet Of The Millions Who Rely Upon Bread For Up To 35% Of Their Daily Energy—3 Out Of 4 Fail To Get A Good Diet, U.S. Officials Say. Thus, Can Fail To Get Enough Vitamin B₁

New Wonder Bread Thrills Thousands Everywhere Because:

- (1) Contains Vitamin B₁ (2) Slo-Baked For Lasting Freshness
- (3) Taste better (4) Proves Easier-To-Slice

WHAT everybody knows is that millions of people rely upon bread for up to 35% of their daily energy.

But what you may not know is that you must have Vitamin B₁ to help transform the bread you eat into the energy you need.

Science today proves conclusively that it takes Vitamin B₁ to unlock bread's hidden energy.

Now—according to U.S. Government Health Officials, 3 out of 4 people fail to get a good diet; thus can fail to get enough Vitamin B₁ naturally.

This does not mean that you lack Vitamin B₁, so badly the bread you eat does you no good. But it does mean that your body cannot properly transform bread into the energy you must have these days unless you get sufficient Vitamin B₁.

A New Kind Of Bread

Now, wise Mother Nature put Vitamin B₁ into wheat. But—in making bread whiter—man took it out.

Then Theodore Earle patented a way to retain more natural vitamins and minerals in flour.

And mass production by American industry made possible further additions of the Vitamin B₁ needed in the bread. A bread now better for flavor and better for health than before.

It's Doubly Fresh

Then, too, this new Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it; fresh when you eat it.

Because it is slo-baked for lasting freshness—baked 13% longer than many ordinary kinds.

See how much longer it stays fresh on the table in the lunch box.

In addition, Wonder's slo-baking method gives you bread with a richer, flavor now.

And—a fluff, tenderer texture. You'll find it easy to slice—and it leaves no crumbs.

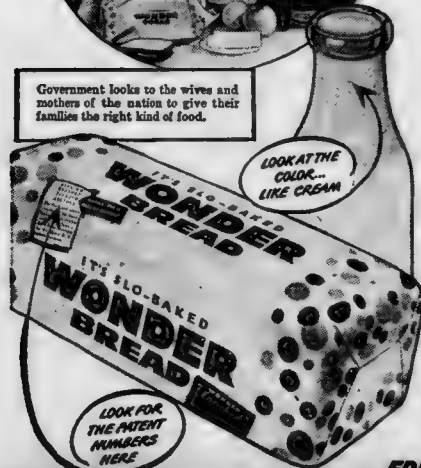

Get new Wonder Bread at your grocer's today. You'll be glad you didn't.

Only Wonder Bread is made this way from Earle's Patented Process Flour—U. S. Pat. Nos. 2,143,306, 2,232,697, 2,155,819, 2,211,066.

PRISON FILM TO NORMANDIE

Columbia's "City Without Men," new prison drama for the Normandie on Wednesday, brings to the screen a stormily "different" sort of story. It relates the conflict and turmoil in the hearts of women who wait for their men outside prison walls—and mark the passage of time by the nearness of the next visitors' day.

In the long periods between, the waiting women work in laundries or at other dispiriting tasks, and try to live with their memories.

Such a role is played by Linda Darnell, whose fiancé is an eager young seaman anxiously awaiting word of his acceptance into the United States Navy. The boy is unjustly imprisoned, accused of smuggling aliens into the country, and in his despair he attempts to persuade Miss Darnell to break with him, to create a new life for herself. The news of Pearl Harbor rouses him to some faint hope; he and other prisoners petition officials for permission to fight, in "suicide squads," if necessary. When their petition is rejected, he makes plans for escape.

Cast opposite Miss Darnell, young Michael Duane's initial screen appearance is gratifying. Edgar Buchanan is equally effective as a shyster lawyer who exploits the women who wait.

Only One Girl In 'Cairo' Film

It's a 300-to-1 cinch that Paramount's "Five Graves to Cairo" will be a one-girl picture.

Not only is the dark-haired Anne Baxter the only woman in the cast of 11 principals, but also the talented young actress is the sole feminine player among all the performers who will go before the camera. Supplementing the cast are 300 men extras playing the roles of British, German and Italian soldiers in the story written by Charles Brackett and Billy Wilder, which the latter is directing, with the former as associate producer.

Franchot Tone, Erich von Stroheim and Akim Tamiroff are playing the leading masculine roles for the drama which has the North African war as a setting.

Brazilian Jitterbird Joins Donald Duck in Disney Epic

The most brilliant new character in Walt Disney's unusual entertainment feature, "Saludos Amigos," is the engaging Joe Carioca, the Brazilian jitterbird, who co-stars with Donald Duck.

On Saturday, "Saludos Amigos" (Hello, Friends!) is due on the Majestic screen. It will bring you Disney's first impressions of his South American neighbors gleaned from the film survey trip through Latin America he made last year in company with a group of his most talented co-workers.

Joe Carioca is heard speaking fluent Portuguese not only in Disney's Brazilian version, but also in the Spanish and English versions.

Disney did not wish to change Joe's speech to English and Spanish in these other versions, as he felt it would destroy the illusion of Donald's being a foreigner in Brazil.

Thus whenever the film is shown Joe will stick to his Portuguese and Donald to his own peculiar brand of English.

And although at first the two do not find a common language meeting ground, they become the best of friends in spite of this. The picture ends with audiences sure that, through Joe's capable efforts, Donald will be speaking Portuguese in no time, especially after Joe teaches him the samba to the rhythm of the immensely popular "Brazil."

The RKO Radio-released feature film in Technicolor depicts the high spots of a 20,000-mile air journey through Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Bolivia and Peru. Customs, music and scenic wonders are authentically recorded in drawing and "live" shots to make one of the most exciting and novel films of the year.

SPY DRAMA DUE THURSDAY

With that handsome tough guy, Alan Ladd, as its chief protagonist, Paramount's lively spy drama, "Lucky Jordan," comes to the Paramount and Fenway screens on Thursday.

The story concerns the adventures of an American gangster who meets up with some of Hitler's mobsters, boys of the submarine brigade, and discovers that the good old U. S. A. is a swell country to fight for after all.

"Lucky Jordan" is Ladd's first starring film and, according to repute, it has more thrills and excitement packed into it than either of the two pictures that made him famous, "This Gun for Hire" and "The Glass Key." In these films he was featured with Veronica Lake.

In "Lucky Jordan" the romance is carried by a newcomer to Hollywood, Helen Walker. Helen had the top feminine role opposite Alexander Knox in her first Broadway play, "Jason," and she was promptly signed by Paramount and given the lead with Ladd, in this her first picture.

"Lucky Jordan" was directed by Frank Tuttle and the screen play was written by Darrell Ware and Karl Tunberg from an original story by Charles Leonard. The cast includes Sheldon Leonard, as a sinister gangster; Lloyd Corrigan, as a shyster lawyer; Marie McDonald and others.

For a co-feature, there will be "Army Surgeon," with James Ellison, Jane Wyatt and Kent Taylor in a film that honors the doctors and nurses who brave frontline dangers to save precious lives.

Jessel's New Song In Guy Kibbee Film

George Jessel wrote the lyrics to one of the three musical numbers in "Cinderella Swings It," forthcoming RKO Radio release starring Guy Kibbee, based on a Clarence Budington Kelland story. "Cinderella Swings It" is the first of the Kibbee vehicles to be enhanced with music.

"The Flag's Still There, Mr. Key," is a patriotic number of this film, words by Jessel, music by Ben Oakland, who composed the scores of Grace Moore's most famous hit films.

MAMOULIAN WILL DIRECT

The Theater Guild's "Green Grow the Lilacs," the musical version of Lynn Riggs's play originally produced by the Guild in 1931, will be directed by Rouben Mamoulian, distinguished stage and screen director. The book and lyrics are by Oscar Hammerstein 2d and the music has been composed by Richard Rodgers.

Mamoulian, who has directed seven plays for the Guild, his last assignment having been George Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" in 1935, has temporarily postponed his plans for the organization of an independent picture unit on the Pacific Coast to devote his time exclusively to "Green Grow the Lilacs." The first rehearsal date will be announced shortly.

Katharine Cornell's production of Anton Chekhov's "The Three Sisters," at New York's Barrymore Theatre, will be 50 performances old tonight.

Because of the unprecedented co-operation by her fellow players, many of whom have been working for less than their accustomed salaries, Miss Cornell has been able to pay off the entire production cost of "The Three Sisters," which was just under $40,000, by the end of its fourth week on Broadway.

Now in its seventh week at the Barrymore, "The Three Sisters" is laying plans for a brief Spring tour after its limited engagement in Manhattan.

TONIGHT'S OPENING

"This Rock," new comedy by Walter Livingston Faust, starring Billie Burke, opens tonight at the Plymouth Theater. Eddie Dowling is producing and staging the new comedy. Featured in the cast are Nicholas Joy, Jane Sterling, Zachary Scott and Alastair Kyle and a company of 25 supporting players. Watson Barratt has designed the settings. "This Rock" will play for two weeks through Feb. 12 at the Plymouth prior to its Broadway premiere.

'Silver Queen' Tops New Olympia Bill

"Silver Queen," story of a gambling queen who ruled the notorious Barbary Coast with Priscilla Lane, George Brent and Bruce Cabot, is now showing on the Washington St. Olympia screen. On the same bill is "Girl Trouble," co-starring Don Ameche and Joan Bennett in a romantic yarn suggested by the rubber shortage.

AL AND EDNA were married last year. Tomorrow Al starts for camp. And Edna is going to follow him around the circle as long as she can.

Everyone says how brave Edna is. Already she has given up their cottage, turned in their coupe for a trailer and fixed it up with many gadgets, so that Al can "come back to a real home" no matter where he's stationed, until he's sent overseas.

After that? Well, Edna refuses to think of "after that."
"But we'll have each other while we can," sighs Edna. And the whole town pities and lauds her—Al included. Once in a while, though, Al wonders secretly to himself if things wouldn't be better if she'd let him go alone.

Rita doesn't wonder. Rita and Jim married about the same time as Edna and Al—live in the same town. Rita and Edna both have jobs. Jim goes out on the same day as Al. But Rita isn't following him.

"I know," says Rita, "some people say I'm not sentimental, but I love you as much as any woman could. It's just that I think there are better ways of proving your love than by following a man around, spoiling the chances he has of getting a good break in Army life."

So there you have two ideals of love—Edna's and Rita's. Edna, who believes in being a Gypsy Lover, no matter what the cost—and Rita, who is determined to see her marriage through and save her home, regardless of the loneliness it entails.

And believe me, it's a problem. Well, what's YOUR vote? We're waiting to hear it and print it.

The next time Mussolini starts for that balcony he'd better first stick out his hat to see if they shoot at it.

That goes for Shickelgruber too. Over half a million Italians, Rumanians, Hungarians and Bulgarians lie between the Volga and the Don.

Of course, Shickelgruber will have his revenge. He will shoot school children for spelling Tsimlyanskaya the right way.

And as for Mussolini I hope he is wearing both suspenders and a belt. He has lost about everything else.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

International News Service Staff Writer
In poker we are told always to call unless beaten on the table. Mr. Flynn did not call.

It will be entered in the records that he was beaten on the table.

He went down claiming to have the top hand . . . "though" my friends in the Senate assure me of his confirmation . . . but he didn't play it through.

That makes it more obvious than ever that he was not the guy to play South Seas poker.

A man who claims to have the winning hand and then chucks it is nobody who is ever going to pick up the pot for us.

When all the rest of the ingredients in the brew have boiled away these items will remain: Flynn was nominated by the President to be minister to Australia and personal ambassador to the Southwest Pacific, his nomination was reported favorably 13 to 10 by the Senate committee, he withdrew before it went to the Senate for debate and final vote.

He can explain it in 10 or 10- Vadis?

Defense Workers in Ring Battle

"THE BATTLE OF the Shipyard Champions!" This would make a perfect title for the 10-round bout between Johnny Seaman and Henry Chmielewski which will be staged by the Goodwin A. C. at the Arena on Friday night. Seaman is working at Fore River, while Chmielewski is employed at a shipyard at Portland, Me.

JOHNNY SEAMAN

Seaman and Chmielewski have plenty of backers, and there will be many a dollar change hands on the result of the contest. It is likely that when the gong sounds the opening of the first round that Chmielewski will not be more than a 10-to-9 favorite.

I had a high average picking winners of boxing bouts last week with Pacino, Buckless and Sauer coming through with victories. I frankly admit that Seaman and Chmielewski present more problems than did last week's bouts. The two shipyard workers are so evenly matched that most anyone can happen when they start exchanging blows. A single well-directed wallop may be the margin of victory.

Seaman comes here from Erie, Pa., where he established a reputation as a professional boxer after going through the fire of an A. A. U. championship.

Seaman fought a stirring 10-round draw with Frankie Nelson in a local ring. Manager Johnny Buckley contended that Seaman won, while many of the fans held a similar opinion.

Chmielewski Escaped Hitler's Guns in Warsaw

CHMIELEWSKI, like Seaman, graduated from the ranks of the amateurs to the pros. His first visit to the United States was as a member of a Polish team that fought the Chicago Golden Glove champions.

Chmielewski later returned to this country to box as a professional. He was only here a short time when Hitler's army took over Warsaw. The youthful Polish middleweight has had considerable ring success here. He has won from Coley Welsh in most of their bouts. In their last meeting, a cut eye gave Welsh the victory. Chmimy has also beaten Frankie Nelson, Lou Brouillard, Howell King and other first class fighting men.

Harry Kelley has schooled the Polish thumper in the fine points of the boxing game. The result is Chmimy can now box well in addition to being able to knock over the opposition with a right hand punch.

Chmielewski has never had an unsatisfactory fight in this country. This is due to his aggressiveness and punching power. Seaman will have to show plenty of ring ability if he is to win over Chmielewski.

Valenti Sees Golden Lining for Boxing

MATCHMAKER RIP Valenti of the Goodwin Club, despite his heavy losses promoting boxing in Boston in recent years, sees a golden lining for boxing. He believes that the war has created new interest in the ring game. There are plenty of boxing customers with money if the promoters can secure the right kind of attractions. Willie Pep has proved this in New York where he has been drawing capacity crowds. The recent Pep-Stolz bouts attracted 19,500 fans who paid $66,000 into the box office.

In the Golden Twenties, $50,000 gates were common in Boston. Boxing can and will come back if ring men and promoters do their part to give the public a run for its money.

Seaman and Chmielewski have a fine chance to do a little scoring Friday night.

COWLEY PACES N. H. L. BY THREE POINT MARGIN

Bill Cowley and Buz Boll rate first and fourth, respectively, in the race for the N. H. L. scoring honors. . . "Cowboy" Bill has amassed a total of 51 points, topping Lorne Carr of the Maple Leafs by 3 points, while the "Buzzer" is trailing Billy "The Kid" Taylor, Toronto, by one point and only 8 in arrears of Cowley. . . Cowley and Boll set a very fast pace last week, getting seven points in three games. . . Bill tops the league with assists, 37, and Buz is the leading goal getter with 35, which is an all time high for the popular right winger and only three less than he scored for the Amerks in three seasons.

Don Grosso is the only N. H. L. player since World War No. 1 to score more goals in a game off than Boll. . . in 14 games last spring, Grosso came up with eight goals. . . During the Stanley Cup series in 1936, the "Buzzer" made seven goals in nine games.

Since Conn Smythe took charge, the Maple Leafs have always been dangerous when the blue chips were down. So it will be a grave mistake on the part of the Bruins or the Red Wings to count Toronto out of the running because Syl Apps is through for the season with a broken leg. . . Frank Brimsek's version of the accident is that Apps came in close with "Busher" Jackson with him and that Syl's skate caught in the string on the inside of the cage and that the collision with the iron upright did the damage.

At Toronto, Art Jackson scored his first goal since he left the

B'S OUT TO MAKE HAWKS NO. 3 IN NEW WIN PARADE

By BILL GRIMES

After a most profitable week-end trip to Toronto and New York, the Bruins are rarin' to get at the Chicago Blackhawks tonight at the Boston Garden.

Due to the absence of Capt. "Dit" Clapper, who had been out of the lineup for two weeks, the Rossmen had lost three in a row when they knocked off the Leafs and Rangers.

About a month ago, the Bruins dropped successive games to Toronto, Canadians and Rangers and the skeptics predicted the Ross-men were letting go at the seams. Instead, they snapped out of that slump and went eight games without a defeat.

They have started on another winning streak and are confident that the Hawks will be No. 3 on their victory parade.

Clapper returned to action in New York and his presence gave the Bruins a fine lift. Although he was very tired, Clapper didn't show any serious effects after the game.

Art Jackson snapped out of his scoring slump over the week-end. He hadn't been himself for a fortnight, due to the fact that his wife was ill in Toronto and he wasn't feeling any too well himself. His comeback was a grand one for he scored twice against the Leafs and once against the Rangers while making three assists.

Over the week-end, the Bruins' first line, Bill Cowley, Jackson and Buz Boll (stole the shows by grabbing off 16 of the 26 points scored.

The Hawks have been clicking since Manager Paul Thompson returned from a scouting trip. During the absence of their manager, the Hawks didn't win a game in six starts but they have beaten the Bruins and Rangers, and tied Toronto since Thompson took charge again one week ago Sunday.

Thanks to Les Canadiens, the Bruins are now leading the league by two full games over the Red Wings and have widened the gap between them and Toronto to seven points.

Rossmen Left Green Holding Bag-17 of 'em

Between 11 o'clock Saturday night and 4:30 Sunday morning the blood pressure of Win Green, Bruins' trainer, must have hit a new high.

For more than 15 years, Green has been traveling around this country and Canada with the Bruins and the Red Sox without even missing a train. Well, that "never miss a train" record has now gone by the boards. And the "Old Master's" pride is cut to the quick but pleads "Not Guilty."

"I came out of the Maple Leafs Gardens about 11 o'clock," declared Greenie, when called to account for missing the Bruins' train at Welland, Ont., Sunday morning.

SAFE DRIVER

"As usual, I was the last one out of the dressing room. But I was not alone," continued the "Pride of Roxbury." "I was accompanied by 17 duffle bags. I thought the players would carry their equipment. Maybe they went 'high hat' after beating the Leafs. "At a glance, I saw that my chauffeur was a cautious driver. Later, I discovered that he didn't know the location of Welland, where I was to make train connections. The roads were slippery and he refused to take any risks.

"The train was due to arrive at 1:16 and he pulled into the station at 2:30.

"A Mr. Williams, "Turk" Broda's father-in-law, who had driven Clapper and a couple of players to Welland, informed me that they had held the train until about five minutes before I had put in appearance.

The "Old Master" refused to be counted out.

"Do you know your way to Buffalo?" I asked my driver. "I think so," was his reply.

"At the Peace Bridge, I discovered my driver didn't have a passport to enter the 'States.' And for the second time the 'buck' was right in my lap.

"I told my tale of woe to the American custommen on the United States end of the bridge. He allowed me to enter this country but sent my driver back to Toronto.

WIN GREEN

"I called the Van Dyke Taxi Co. of Buffalo and told them to hustle a cab out to where I was marooned. The driver and I piled the 17 duffle bags into the car and we made the Bison city in nothing flat.

PARTIALLY VINDICATED

"Upon my arrival at the station, I couldn't find the Bruins car. Up and down the platform, my 'redcap' pushed his truck with the Bruin equipment. But no Car 530.

"Finally, a trainman informed me that there were some more cars coming. Sure enough, the first car I spotted was No. 530 and 'Dit' Clapper on the platform.

"We tossed the bags into the vestibule just before the train got underway."

The Green System was partially vindicated.

B. C. Plans to Play Baseball All Summer

By HERB FINNEGAN

Come mid-year graduation Feb. 28, all but two of the 35 Boston College football players who made the Orange Bowl trip will be in the armed forces, yet despite the paucity of varsity material, the Eagles are planning their sports program on a "full steam ahead" basis.

Said graduate Mgr. John P. Curley this morning: "Like Comdr. Tom Hamilton, B. C. is a staunch advocate of competitive athletics and will continue them as long as possible."

"The hockey team will finish out its schedule; we plan to conduct spring football on a mass basis, and we hope Freddie McGuire will be available again to coach the varsity baseball team not only this spring but all summer as well."

Yes, B. C. will go all out in an athletic way, even though the caliber of varsity competition may be below standard ("We probably won't be any worse off than the other colleges," Curley philosophizes.)

200 NEW FRESHMEN

Athletics at Boston College, under the new physical fitness set-up, will be practically 100 per cent compulsory, Curley added, and for that reason hopes to have as many as 11 varsity football teams in operation this spring.

If Denny Myers and Harry Marr are in the Navy and Cecil Brombaugh tied up in his defense job, Line Coach Moody Sarno can take over as top man and can get help from Guard Stumpy Fiorentino, rejected by the Army, and End Vic Stasunas, who isn't old enough to register.

Some 200 new freshmen are signing up at B. C. this week, but Curley didn't know whether any of them were of varsity football caliber. Soon enough to find out in spring practice, which will start late in April.

TRACK AT NEW LOW

B. C. hopes, Curley said, to play a lot of baseball right through the summer. "We expect to play series with both Fordham and Holy Cross, and we'll play every Greater Boston college team we can schedule. (Tufts didn't play baseball last spring; doesn't plan to play this year). And any service teams in the district can find a spot on our schedule any time."

Track has been at a low ebb at B. C. this winter, what with enlistments and lack of a field house. But track is a popular sport at B. C. in the spring and should be twice as popular in the good old summertime. Curley will get busy with a summer schedule of dual and tri meets right away.

At any rate, what with events being called off right and left, it is encouraging to know that B. C. plans to keep all sports going at top speed during the current emergency.

Valorous records of their many graduates in the armed forces have proved the worth of competitive athletics.

PENN RELAYS TO BE HELD

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2 (AP)—The University of Pennsylvania announced the Penn relays will be held as usual this year, carrying on an unbroken series since 1895. The two-day meet will open April 23.

Jim Swarts, athletic director, said he sent inquiries to nearly 300 colleges some time ago, and nearly all replied that they intended to compete. In addition, Swarts received a favorable report from the Office of Defense Transportation, saying, in effect, that common carrier facilities could be used.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2 (AP)—Connie Mack said he had eliminated bonus clauses from all contracts, which he started mailing today to members of the Philadelphia Athletics.

"There were several such contracts last year, particularly those with Bob Johnson and Dick Siebert," Mack said, "but so much trouble resulted that I have decided to forget about bonus agreements."

Johnson already has notified Mack that he will not sign unless a second bonus listed in last year's contract is paid. Mack claims attendance did not reach the figure specified for such payment.

"Nevertheless," Connie said, "I'm sending a new contract to Johnson."

LEO DUROCHER Takes Draft Physical

DRAFT DATE FOR DUROCHER

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Feb. 2 (INS)—Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers was ready for an important date today with his draft board.

Durocher, 37, announced he expected to take a physical examination at City Hospital clinic this evening and, after that, is prepared to let the question of his selective service up to Uncle Sam.

Just returned from the Mayo Brothers clinic in Rochester, Minn., where he underwent a physical check-up, the loquacious Dodger boss asserted he was ready to play plenty of baseball next season if he is not summoned to military service.

With Harold "Peewee" Reese, Dodger shortstop, now in the Navy, Durocher said he was prepared to return to his old position to fill the infield gap. He'll go to New York tomorrow to confer with Branch Rickey, the Dodgers' new president, and will proceed as if he expected to remain in baseball for the year.

"This doesn't mean, however," added Leo, "that I'm not ready to go to the Army if they call me. On the contrary, I'm ready to answer Uncle Sam's immediate call."

LOU FINNEY PLACED ON RETIRED LIST

33

Lou Finney has been placed on the voluntary retired list for the duration, the Red Sox front office announced today.

The Sox right fielder, who has been "frozen" to the soil by governmental ukase, asked Commr. Landis to place him on the retired list, and Landis endorsed the move.

Finney, married but childless, operates a 750-acre farm at Buffalo, Alabama.

Catcher Bill Conroy wrote on from his Alameda, Cal. home that he would be on hand March 22 "without his wife and child." The Sox want to know how many rooms they'll need to house their men at Hotel Kenmore. Added Conroy: "And I'm going to be the Sox No. 1 catcher this year, too." Bill will have more competition this year than he had in '42, when Frankie Pytlak's entrance

THOMPSON SEEKS 3D LEG ON BAA TROPHY

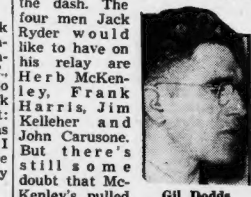

Herb Thompson of Jersey City and Herb Dought of Pittsburgh are the latest entries in the Briggs dash trophy.

feature of the 54th B. A. A. meet which will be held at the Garden on Feb. 13. Thompson held two legs on the trophy that 1941 night Hal Davis won the B. A. A. sprint, and Charlie Beetham there were plenty around the finish line who thought Thompson had beaten the California comet. Last year Thompson was blanked in the semi-final. Later the colored flier came back to win the New York K. C. New York A. C., and Chicago relay dashes. Barney Ewell, who won dashes at the B. A. A. games, Millrose and Nationals, is also entered in the Briggs dash here. Douglas was a finalist in the 1942 Briggs dash. Tom Kanaly also announces that Charlie Beetham will be back to run the Hollis 600. The former Ohio State ace lowered the Boston 600 mark to 1:11.8 in winning the special last winter.

Arnold Edelman will be the fourth man on the Harvard one-mile quartet at Millrose. Edelman made a fine comeback after a severe ankle injury. His teammates will be Wes Flint, Jim Wheeler and Bill Bingham, Jr., all potential 50-second men. Only other Harvard entrant at Millrose is Capt. Don McKinnon, hurdler. The two-mile relay wasn't up to snuff and as a result Coach Jaakko Mikola scratched it. It will be ready for the B. A. A. meet next week, however, in which it will face Northeastern's crack team of Bob Carroll, Ray Furubush, Walter Crowley and Bill Foster.

Boston College will take five men to Millrose, a one-mile relay and an alternate who will start in the dash.

The four men Jack Ryder would like to have on his relay are Herb McKenley, Frank Harris, Jim Keilheiser and John Carusone. But there's still some doubt that McKenley's pulled tendon will stand up. If it doesn't, sprinter Tom Greahan will be the fourth man on the relay, but Ryder would rather see Tom in the sprint, especially since it's at 60 yards.

Gil Dodds will stick to the mile this winter unless the big New York promoters insist upon him meeting Greg Rice over the two-mile route. Last winter Dodds ran a mile this week, two the next, etc., and anybody on the irregular schedule is bound to have an off night occasionally.

Exterminator Best Old Trainer Claims

By HORACE WADE

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 2—Whirlaway may be a two-time, big-shot "Horse of the Year" title holder but when it comes to handing out all-time thoroughbred diplomas of worth there's one horse who's taking a back seat to nobody. Exterminator's name, says trainer William Knapp, and if there's anyone who knows what he's talking about it ought to be Knapp, for he not only trained the wonder Kilmer horse but was also aboard him in some of his most sensational races.

Whirlaway's earnings of $550,000? "Peanuts!" snorts Knapp, "If Exterminator was running today he'd have won $700,000!"

In the first place Exterminator never asked an inch nor conceded one, regardless of track conditions or the type of company he faced. And he was tossed up against some stiff ones. Turf titans such as Grey Lag and Boniface and others. There was nobility in those days, Knapp reflects, "none of your sissy horses of today, coddled and petted and considered over-raced if they face the starter more than once a month."

"Why, Exterminator ran a hundred races in his time and won 50 of them. What's more, he was out of the money only four or five times throughout his entire career. He could sprint or go a mile and a half with equal ease."

"He whipped as great a short distance horse as Billy Kelly at six furlongs in near record time, then turned right around to go head and head all the way with Boniface in the Pimlico cup at two miles and a quarter. Hanging the nod on him at the wire."

Not that Knapp doesn't figure Whirlaway to be pretty much shucks in his own right; he just doesn't think all the furor over the Calumet star's heavy winnings is justified.

"Purses are bigger nowadays," he commented at the Fair Grounds, "and Old Shang—that's what we called Exterminator rather than the generally accepted, 'Old Bones'—only won $14,000 when he captured the Kentucky Derby, a purse worth $75,000 today. Nor did he have any $100,000 races to run after. The best purse he ever won was the $15,000 International Handicap at Latonia."

Toss a few of today's big pots into the book and he'd have been so far in front in earnings the others'd think he was a will-o'-the-wisp.

"Incidentally, Exterminator was bought for only $9000 with a pair of fillies tossed in to complete the deal, just because Willis Sharpe Kilmer wanted his colors in the Derby. Sun Briar, his main dependent, had broken down prior to the running and Old Shang carried the mail in terrific style, winning in a common canter."

"He then went on to become the greatest cup horse this country has ever seen, coping at least a dozen races over the Cup distance and showing gameness and consistency unmatched to this day."

Few horses in history have so endeared themselves to a generation of American race-goers as has this game old gelding. His is a story which will never grow old, but will rather become the more heart-warming with the passing years, a thoroughbred saga worthy of living down the ages.

Barry Whitehead, racing secretary of the New Hipodromo De Las Americas track at Mexico City, has left New Orleans for California after paying a short call at the Fair Grounds.

Ed Hayward is sending several horses from the Barrington Stable, headed by Bardia, to Columbia, S. C., for a short rest before the opening of spring racing in the East. The Barrington Stable has seven head turned out at Lexington, Ky., and these will join the main division immediately at Columbia.

Darrell Clingman continues to lead the Fair Grounds jockeys with 42 triumphs in 48 days, seven more winners than were ridden by Lyle Whiting. Haughton tops the trainers with 26 winners, while Jack Howard's Coldstream stable and the Louisiana Farms of Harold Clark head the owners with 16 winners each.

All-Scholastic Team To Hear Lt. R. Fuller

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Lieut Robert P. "Whitey" Fuller, U. S. N. R., former public relations director at Dartmouth, will be guest speaker at the annual dinner to be tendered to the members of the Boston Evening American-Daily Record Board of Coaches' All-Scholastic team at the Hotel Lenox tomorrow night.

Lieut. Fuller, since joining the armed forces shortly after Pearl Harbor, has been doing some great work recruiting college men for naval aviation.

When a senior at Dartmouth, Lieut. Fuller took over the public relations duties under Earl Blaik, then coach of the Big Green, toward the close of the semester, picking up again in the fall. As publicity man at Hanover, Lieut. Fuller became one of the most popular figures with sports scribes throughout the East.

Since joining the Navy, Lieut. Fuller has been responsible for bringing Teddy Williams and Johnny Pesky of the Red Sox into naval aviation. Williams and Pesky were but a pair in the long list who were swayed into this branch of the service by the capable Dartmouth graduate.

8 OF TEAMS TO BE PRESENT

Lieut. Fuller, a most appropriate speaker, will be a great guide to these schoolboys facing the Army draft in the near future, and he will probably tell the boys how to take advantage of their situations in regard to the U. S. Navy.

Members of the All-Scholastic team have been granted the privilege of bringing a male companion to the dinner to share in their honors. Eight members of the team will be present, three other choices of the board of coaches having left for other parts of the country.

At Canova of Medford High has left his studies to pick up his classes at Notre Dame while Ray Brickley, captain of the All-team, has joined the Army Air Corps, and Johnny "Bozo" Moran, Salem, is now in training at Parris Island, So. Carolina, with the U. S. Marines. Gridders expected will include Lennie Morrissey, Newton;

At the head table with Lieut. Fuller will be the board of coaches, Jim Manfield, Haverhill; Ed "Skip" Sherlock, Hyde Park; Bill Ohrenberger, Boston English; Harry Downes, Brookline; Bill Broderick, Salem; Fred Osterger, Arlington; George Kennelly, Revere; and Dennie Gildes, Everett. Members of the team will be presented with woolen jackets by the James W. Brine Sporting Goods Co., Summer st., Boston, which now has the All Scholastic Jacket on display in its show windows. The jackets have a blue body with red and white trimmings on the neck, wrists and bottoms with All Emblems on the chest. On top of this, the gridders will be presented gold, engraved football charms.

The dinner will be underway at 5:30 p. m. and wind up by 9:30 p. m. in order that boys from out-of-town may make train connections home.

HARVARD OUT TO END STREAK OF GREEN SIX

Harvard winter sports get back in swing late this week. Exams are all over and the various teams are back at practice again for what promises to be big weekend action.

Coach Johnny Chase's sextet will jump up to Hanover for, a renewal of the ice feud with the sensational Dartmouths, who edged them back in January in a 10 to 8 thriller at the Boston Skating Club and thus marred an otherwise perfect Crimson record.

27 STRAIGHT FOR GREEN

The Harvards not only hope to even the count with the Indians this coming Saturday, but they also have an extra incentive in aiming to break the Big Green's phenomenal 27-game winning streak.

In this hockey match, Capt. Johnny Paine, stellar defenseman, will be playing his last game, since he is service-bound shortly. And his sub, young Bill Appthorpe, will be winding up his rink activity for the Jawsies at the same time.

QUINT FACES TERRIERS

Meanwhile Jakko Mikola's track equid will be rolling over the rails to Manhattan, where they will participate in the Milrose games.

Locally Coach Earl Brown's basketballers will hook up with the B. U. Terriers at the Indoor Athletic Building. Extra hungry for victory, Harvard will be out to recapture its brilliant early season form prior to its disastrous midwestern trip and early January defeats to Cornell and Pennsylvania.

Air Corps Calls Pro All-Star

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 2 (AP)—Bill Dudley, sensational rookie halfback of the Pittsburgh Steelers, said he has been ordered to report for duty with the U. S. Army Air Corps. He had enlisted Oct. 2.

Dudley, who won the ground gaining championship and was named to the All-League team in his first season of professional football, stopped in Pittsburgh for a few minutes' visit with Steelers officials, then continued with a contingent of Air Corps candidates for Miami, Fla.
